Sean Joyce chosen as Sierra Madre's city administrator

Sean Joyce, who has served as Sierra Madre's acting city administrator since Sept. 1, 1993, following the resignation of Jim McRea, was appointed to the post of city administrator at Monday evening's adjourned City Council meeting. His first day was Tuesday, Apr. 2. Joyce has been assistant city administrator since Apr. 30, 1990.

Mayor Clem Bartolai reviewed the history of the selection when he explained that the selection began in the fall of 1993. Forty-five candidates from California, Pennsylvania, Colorado and Texas, "to name a few," applied for the position initially, Bartolai said. In December and January, 1994, the number had been reduced to seven candidates. After two personnel sessions, one on Jan. 15, and one on Feb. 9, four candidates remained. After further exploration on Feb. 23, the number had dropped to two. After background testing and evaluation, the council met with the candidate who had rated the highest, and Sean Joyce was appointed, Bartolai explained.

A roll call vote was unanimous with four of the five councilmembers saying a few words.

Councilman Gary Adams said he voted "yes, with some concern." He explained that he had talked with Joyce about those concerns and he pledged to assist the new city administrator to help him succeed.

Councilman Cline said that Sean "has taken on a job in difficult times and he is the strongest candidate."

Mayor Pro Tem MaryAnn MacGillivray said that she believed that it is important for the City Council to move in a concensus fashion. "As a whole and in unison we will get behind this administration."

Mayor Clem Bartolai said he wished to express his appreciation to Joyce for a job well done. "You have worked under extremely difficult circumstances over the past few months...I have seen numerous areas of improvement...Your team effort shows you are willing to allow others to get credit, too."

Joyce thanked the City Council for expressing confidence in him and said, "I look forward to working with the City Council and community. There is a wonderful, talented group here and a number of challenges. Thank you all again."

Joyce was born and raised in Irvine, attended Saddleback Community College and graduated from Cal State University at Fullerton with a BA in political science and public administration. He received his Masters degree in 1992 in public administration. His parents live in Irvine.

His wife, Veronica, and he have been married six years this July.

She said, "I am really excited and pleased to be able to be part of this community. I have confidence that he will do a good job for the city."

She works in accounting with Rockwell International, Anaheim.

T-shirt designs needed for contest

By Hank Landsberg

The Sierra Madre Fourth of July Committee reminds local residents that entries are now being accepted for the design of the official 1994 Fourth of July T-shirt. Designs that feature local landmarks and/or represent our quality of life in Sierra Madre are usually popular. Patriotic designs are also welcome.

Sketches should be sent to The News office. The deadline is Thursday, Apr. 21, at noon.

The winning design will be selected that evening at the regular meeting of the Fourth of July Committee.

The Fourth of July T-shirt is sold as a fund-raiser to help pay for the Fourth of July Parade and other Independence Day festivities.

Sierra Madre City Council Agenda, Tues., Apr. 12, 6:30 p.m., chambers

There will be a study session at 6 p.m.

Garr to be named Inns of Court president

Local resident and Planning Commissioner Bill Garr will assume the presidency of the USC chapter of the American Inns of Court Foundation. As part of his responsibility, Garr and his wife, Donna, also an attorney, will travel to Washington, D.C. in June for the 10th annual Inns of Court National meeting.

Garr is a Judge Pro Tem in Pasadena Municipal Court and also practices law with the law firm of Hahn and Hahn in Pasadena. He says he is thrilled about the opportunity of becoming president of the group.

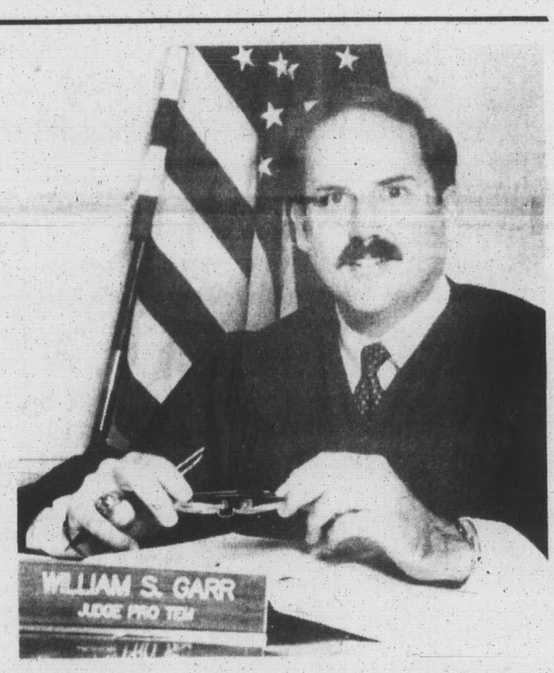

"This organization is one of the best I have ever had the honor of being affiliated with. The sole emphasis of the Inns of Court is to promote legal excellence, professionalism and ethics, and I hope that by becoming president, I will continue the good wok and dedication of the judges and lawyers who have preceded me at the helm."

The Inns of Court is a professional organization of pre-eminent judges and attorneys with over 250 chapters across the nation. It was founded approximately 15 years ago by, among others, Warren E. Burger, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Its stated goal is to seek out those judges and attorneys dedicated to the highest principles of law and practice. Excellence at trial work was not only a requirement, but a continuing goal of membership. Each of the 250 chapters which now exist is limited to 65 members. The USC chapter was the eighth Inn of Court to be formed in the United States.

Inns of Court have existed in England for centuries. In fact, to become a barrister in England you must successfully attend and graduate from one of the four Inns of Court located there. The English Inns of Court have the same type of goals as the American Inns of Court.

Garr said that from his experience, particu-

Candidates respond with no surprises at forum

There were few surprises from the five City Council candidates at last Tuesday's forum at Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club. Mostly, they reviewed their opinions on the city's water supply, our Police Department, city finances, and land development in Sierra Madre.

In the order of their appearance, Challenger Bill Tice said that although the budget was a major issue, he was not in favor of taxes. He said that one idea for making money for the city could be to have residents compost the city's soft trash and sell it. He also supported everyone's volunteering to pay an extra $100 a year to the city to relieve some of the financial problems.

Tice suggested that Sierra Madre groups such as Kiwanis Club support a senior citizen volunteer roster to assist the police in enforcement. He thought that might alleviate some of the robberies in Sierra Madre.

He mentioned, also, that people near the once-proposed golf driving range (near the settling basins) are not in favor of such a project. In fact, he said, neighbors in that area near Heasley and Dapper Fields (where youth and adults play baseball and softball) have bushel baskets full of balls collected during games.

Incumbent Gary Adams said that Sierra Madre, along with other small cities, faces difficult times. Finances have always been a problem—"they are a means to accomplish an end.

"Because the state took a significant portion of the property taxes, Sierra Madre has had to find a way to raise money to return to the reserves. That way was through the utility fee at 6 percent which will raise $600,000 per year in re-

Mosquitoes have landed

With the first mosquito bite during the Wistaria Fete came the realization that it's time for the hoards to come zooming down on Sierra Madreans, as well as others in the foothill communities. It's time for everyone to check home areas that would make perfect breeding areas for the pests.

Where to look? Ornamental ponds, swimming pools, animal water troughs, boats, vases, buckets left outside in the garden. All usable containers should be stored upside down. Boats should not store bilge water. Animal troughs should be cleaned every week. Pool filters should be operated daily. Chlorine will not kill mosquito larvae. Ornamental water ponds should be stocked with mosquito fish.

All mosquitoes must have water in which to complete their life cycle. Only seven days are required to complete their life cycle (egg to adult) during warm weather.

Mosquitoes do not develop in grass or shrubbery although flying adults frequently rest in these areas during the daylight house. Only the female mosquito bites to obtain blood meal and she may live as long as three weeks during the summer or many months over the winter in order to lay her eggs in the following spring.

The mosquito life cycle begins with the eggs. Most common mosquitoes lay egg rafts that float on the water. Each raft contains from 100 to 400 eggs and within a few days the eggs hatch into larvae.

The larvae or "wiggler" comes to the surface to breathe through a tube called a siphon. It sheds its skin or molts four times during the next several days. It grows rapidly between each molt. On the fourth molt it changes into a pupa.

The pupa or "tumbler" cannot eat. It breathes through two tubes on its back. The adult mosquito grows inside the pupa and in two days or so, when it is fully developed, it splits the pupal skin and emerges to complete the life cycle or metamorphosis of the mosquito.

The newly emerged adult nests on the surface of the water until it is strong enough to fly away and feed. And thus begins the cycle once more.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

● Elsie Dammeyer is attempting to scare thieves who stole some of her cymbidium spikes with a sign in her yard which reads, "God will punish you for stealing my flowers."

The day before Easter, someone stole five spikes from a pot of cymbidiums in her yard. Greedy for more flowers, someone else or the same person stole five more spikes early Easter morning from that same plant, then took a spike of 22 flowers from another plant.

Stealing is rotten, but stealing at Eastertime is doubly rotten. Shame on someone.

● Anyone missing a peacock, or did he just get lost in Sierra Madre from his Arcadia habitat?

Ann Foot at Grandview and Canon said that there has been a peacock "hanging around the area" for a few days.

● Joy Sarafian in Sierra Madre urges us all to record serial numbers of all equipment which we own.

In a note, she says, "Recently a friend of mine had $6000 worth of equipment stolen. He even knew who stole his belongings. But he had not recorded his serial numbers and the Walnut Police Dept. cannot help him. Moral to the story: Record your serial numbers today as an extra precaution."

● Everyone is talking about the Boy Scouts, specifically Troop 376 who worked diligently over the Wistaria Fete activities at anything that needed to be done, such as manning barricades, checking trash cans. Nothing was too menial for these boys.

Who is their scoutleader? Annette Marchain, who also owns Craft Cellar in Sierra Madre.

Kudos to you all.

● And while we're extending kudos, we'd like to doff our hat to Sierra Madre City College for offering to fund and build the cement pad in Memorial Park which the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring.

At Tuesday morning's Chamber of Commerce board meeting, there was discussion about a proper plaque to be affixed to the cement pad to be located in the west section of the park, just outside city hall.

We would like to join everyone else in thanking them for their community spirit.

The cement will not be poured until the plaque is in hand, said Bill Sullivan, one of the leaders of Sierra Madre's mythical college from which nearly everyone in Sierra Madre is either a graduate or a matriculating student. Or something like that.

Bill promised that the pad would be completed by the Friends of the Library art fair in May so that community organizations could use it.

● We can't let our kudos go to rest without saluting Dr. Bill White for his clever and community-spirited idea of preserving 300 of the Wistaria Fete envelopes, which he had printed especially, and stamped in purple yet on one of the days of the Fete. Not only did he take care of all of those details but he affixed a stamp on each with a unique hummingbird design.

Thanks, Dr. White, for your continued enthusiasm for this wonderful village of ours. You'll recall that he was also the energy behind Hero Appreciation Day earlier this year.

● We received a note from Mimi Breer of the Maranatha High School auction committee, who gave us a list she had laboriously compiled of towns represented at the Wistaria Fete, people who had bought tickets for the pickup truck which Maranatha is auctioning off on Apr. 30 at the annual dinner/auction. The winner will be announced on May 5...

Here's the list, in alphabetical order: Anaheim, Altadena, Alpine, Arcadia, Arcata, Alhambra, Azusa, Bakersfield, Brea, Bermuda Dunes, Bell, Burbank, Chino Hills, Claremont, Cypress, Camarillo, Covina, Delano, Duarte, Downey, Diamond Bar, El Monte, Fallbrook, Glendale, Garden Grove, Glendora, Hollywood, Hawthorne, Huntington Beach, Hacienda Heights, La Verne, Laguna Niguel, Long Beach, Lompoc, La Canada, Loma Linda, La Puente, Los Angeles, La Crescenta, La Habra Heights, Montebello, Montrose, Monterey Park, Newport Beach, Norwalk, Northridge,

Don't deface stone at entrance

On the divider at the entrance to Sierra Madre at Michillinda and Sierra Madre Boulevard sits a beautiful large stone. I've come to love this stone. Seeing it on my way home has always given me a sense of security and warmth, that home was near. At night as I rounded the corner for home, the shadows from my headlights would reveal, for a brief moment, a "face" formed by the contours of the stone. I liked to think this image was the face of some ancient nature spirit that stood guard over our way of life.

But no more! Now I can't go by this noble stone without a wince of pain for the ignominy our stone is stoically bearing. Someone or some persons in power, in all their wisdom, have seen fit to deface our guardian with some cheap plastic stick-on letters, proclaiming to the world in what, to my way of thinking, amounts to graffiti, the same mentality that says, "You are a beautiful thing of nature, so I must kill you," or "You are a beautiful small town street, so I must put big flowerpots down your center"!

Please, someone remove those awful, embarassing, plastic abominations from the face of our beautiful landmark, give us a nice tasteful sign and leave the stone alone in its unadorned beauty!

Last weekend's Wistaria Affair was wonderful, and I would like to thank the Feeneys and Solts, the Wistaria Committee, Beautification Committee, Chamber, and all the volunteers who made the event such a grand success. As I walked through town I heard people comment on Sierra Madre's charm and the friendliness of its people. It is indeed a wonderful town in which to do business. Thank you all.

Arboretum Walks

By Peggy Stewart

The garden early in the morning has a sense of privacy and secret beauty about it. The mist might hang in the trees or the sun sparkle brightly on new flowers.

Members of the California Arboretum Foundation have a wonderful treat in store next Thursday, Apr. 14. John Provine, superintendent of the Arboretum, will guide a special walking tour of the garden beginning at 7:30 in the morning. We are looking forward to asking John about some of the unusual plants we have spotted on our own walks.

Recently, we walked by the Roots and Shoots Garden which seemed to be especially busy. And it was! The children were making a party of their first harvest of vegetables.

For several weeks they had been nurturing their various lettuces, peas, argulas and other leafy greens. Now they were carefully picking the lettuces leaf by leaf to make a great salad. The guests for their party were the garden staff who had worked so hard to build the garden.

Mailee Grey of the Southern California Camellia Society will be conducting a springtime workshop on camellia care this Saturday, Apr. 9, from 1-3 p.m. in the Home Demonstration Gardens. Camellias are so reliable in our gardens that we forget how much they will benefit from careful and timely pruning and fertilizing. There is no charge for the workshop.

We are preparing for Baldwin Bonanza, the annual plant sale extravaganza, on the weekend of Apr. 30 for members and May 1 for the public. We have an ever-growing list of unusual, new, or simply wonderful plants to buy for our garden.

I'm sure we will add to the list when we take the Thursday morning walk with John Provine. We must remember to make reservations for this Members Only event. CAF office number for reservations and information is 447-8207.

Out and About

By Dick Rogers

Two things are working on the old bean today, both related to law enforcement. A while back, I touched on the fact that a good friend of mine was burglarized...badly burglarized...a virtual wipeout of the things garnered over a lifetime. A few days ago, a visiting sister of a good friend in the canyon awoke to find her new Honda Civic on cinder blocks and all four wheels missing. Her "Sierra Madre" experience isn't what we like to hear. I point these things out to alert you again to the fact we've got to start paying attention to what's going on around us. Something doesn't seem right in the world, ring-a-ding-ding, get our local thin-blue-line on the hook. We've got the best response times in the county...use that to advantage!

I paid a courtesy call to greet the new chief of police, Joe Surgent. I didn't actually get to know him when I worked the department, but all my pipeline friends say he's top-notch. That's advantage number two. He's got some steam up over how to make things work with our P.D., good ideas all, but there is a slight catch. It all boils down to what we like to tout as our central theme in Sierra Madre...citizen involvement.

Well, "I've got some good news for you. Chief Surgent is actively seeking help from a legion of skillful people in the community. It runs the gamut from administrative assistance in the police facility to training civilians to help the city during major emergencies, such as the recent fire. There are a multitude of critical jobs that could be filled by volunteers. Chief Surgent is anxious to talk with people having military emergency operations bureau experience, those with computer knowledge, those willing to be trained for specific functions as well as young people willing to resurrect and participate in the Explorer Program.

The crucial element in all that he proposes is that it answers a parallel concern in city dynamics, we need programs that don't require a pile of money! So answer that need for a commitment that has been bugging you lately and drop Chief Surgent a note to let him know you'd be interested in doing what you can to help. Write him as follows: Chief Joe Surgent, Sierra Madre Police Department, 242 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, CA 91024. Be sure to include your phone number. I can almost guarantee you'll feel good about it.

Time to move

By Dorothy Denne

Suddenly awake with the realization that something has jarred the bed. A pressure against my leg, than again at my side. My eyes open wide to the darkness as I feel warm breath on my neck. A painful blow lands in the center of my stomach. A weight on my chest, and my shoulders are pinned to the bed. A nibble of my left ear. A sand-papery tongue slides over my chin. My cats are giving me a wake-up call for breakfast. We have played this scene before, every time I dared to sleep longer than their stomachs.

I mumble sweet nothings to them and scratch their necks and rub their chins. It works. Mischief sprawls across my chest and Punkin curls into my side. Mischief purrs softly, Punkin more like a roar. They unintentionally lull me back to sleep. Only for awhile. Then I feel the gentle kneading of Mischief. Punkin begins to talk, then she begins to prance. So much for sleeping.

The three of us head for the kitchen, one with a sideways bounce, one with a rug scattering dart, and one with a foot dragging shuffle. I get tripped, they get stepped on. None of us minds. It is obvious from all the mewing, mrr-owing and leg climbing that they have not eaten for weeks!

First a little canned food, then a little dry food, then wash it all down with a generous drink of non-fat milk. A little milk for me, too, and we move into the living room to peek behind the drapes and check the outer world. The light at the corner is red, so the cars are lined. The bass from a 4-wheeler's stereo fills the air and vibrates our windows.

Two pounces onto the foot of the bed, two walks up the entire length of my body and tuna breath announcements that it is time for them to take over the bed and for me to get moving.

THE HOUSE OF SPIRITS
Jeremy Irons, Meryl Streep, Glenn Close, Antonio Banderas, Winona Ryder

Not! Political revolution in South America combines with the life and loves of a brutally ambitious peasant who rises to become an elite-class tyrant. While Streep, Close, and Banderas manage to levitate in spite of this "Pet Cemetery" version of the book, this film is void of soul and haunted by what must be the evil, talentless twin of Jeremy Irons.

Simons continue to seek names of film personnel

In the Jan. 20 edition of the Sierra Madre News, an article highlighted the efforts of locals, Carolyn and Ross Simon, to compile a roster of Sierra Madre film/television production people.

Although the response, according to the Simons, "was terrific," they assume there are many more who would like their name listed on the roster. Among those who are already listed are producers, special effects people, and cameramen, to name a few.

Carolyn Simon is a free-lance makeup person and Ross is an audio engineer.

Those who would like to add their names to the roster, for networking benefits, should call 355-3331.

Sierra Madre Library seeks volunteers

The Sierra Madre Public Library would like volunteers for its STAR project for visually impaired patrons. The Library has installed a Kurzweil Reader—a new, easy-to-use piece of hi-tech equipment that scans text and reads it aloud—and will train volunteers to use the machine and to teach patrons.

All ages are encouraged to call Catriona Shafer at the Library: (818) 355-7187.

Travelers and Collectors to feature Mark Ryne

The Travelers and Collectors series continues this month at Sierra Madre Public Library at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Apr. 8, with a program entitled "Astronomy & Dinosaurs," given by Mark Ryne, a JPL astronomer.

Why did the dinosaurs die out so suddenly? Ryne will discuss current theories and, in particular, will present evidence that an asteroid colliding with the earth 65 million years ago could have been responsible for the dinosaurs' extinction. This fascinating talk will be illustrated with slides. Don't miss it!

Letters from home

Uncle Bulgy, so called because his belt buckle always preceded his chin when he entered a room, had a secret.

When he was a child, his parents showed him off to visitors because he could recite all the presidents and vice presidents. He liked the plaudits, so he kept up with the new names as time passed. People showed him off to strangers, opening the conversation with, "Who was vice-president in 1937?"

His chest would expand a bit toward his belt buckle as he parroted his erudition.

Bulgy was not a genius, limiting his legal practice mostly to producing wills.

But his memory suddenly became prodigious. The locals wanted him to get on TV and radio quiz shows so they could live in his reflected glory when he won, which he assuredly would.

He sometimes put folks off when they stopped him on the street. "Got a client at the office. Gotta get."

But, he was great answering calls at the office, no matter how obscure the desired statistic.

"Germany surrendered May 7, 1945 to end World War II."

"Yes, there is a Slippery Rock College, a university in Pennsylvania, town of the same name."

"Frankly, I don't know much about horse racing, but if memory serves correctly, the last Triple Crown winner was in 1978 - a colt named Affirmed."

"Last Cub named Most Valuable Player in the National League was Andre Dawson."

Bulgy is gone now, God rest his soul, and I'll miss him. I inherited his memory, which he kept handy in his desk drawer.

And I'll keep that World Almanac. It will settle a lot of arguments, until I get the new edition.

Police Blotter

Sierra Madre Police Report is very slim this week with only 87 service calls and only two major crimes reported.

On Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Mar. 29, 30, Apr. 1, 2 and 3, there were no major crimes reported.

Those others reported include Monday, Mar. 28, when four wheels and tires worth $1500 were stolen from a vehicle in the 100 block of Vista Circle. The other major crime on Thursday, Mar. 31 was vandalism of a newsstand when glass was broken out of the stand located in the 300 block of West Sierra Madre Blvd.

Meals-on-Wheels volunteers needed

Due to the retirement of several volunteer drivers for the Sierra Madre Meals-on-Wheels service, replacements are badly needed. Regular drivers may drive a few days per month. Substitute drivers are called upon occasionally to relieve regulars temporarily.

If you can help in this very rewarding volunteer work, please call Ed Wellman at 355-5265 to help you arrange a convenient schedule.

Fire Department

During the period from Monday, Mar. 28 to Sunday, Apr. 3, the Sierra Madre Volunteer Fire Department responded to 11 alarms as follows: Rescue Calls, 8; Fire Calls, 3; Service Calls, 0.

8:13 a.m. - Medical Aid, 100 block S. Michillinda Ave., patient transported to Arcadia Methodist Hospital.

Sunday, Apr. 3:

10:07 a.m. - Fire Call, 100 block E. Montecito Ave., false alarm activation.

Books Etc.

By Margaret Duran

John Jakes on libraries

"Libraries are magical places...they not only take us into new and exciting realms, but also help us grow. They answer questions, solve problems, enable us to better ourselves. If I did not have the library habit—which is passed on by families—I certainly couldn't research and write the first chapter of a historical novel.

"Whatever the need—from simple escape reading to learning gourmet cookery, or evaluating mutual funds, or confronting dire illness—as my son, Mike, said in his 20s, when he set out to master the handling of small boats: 'There's always a book.'

"I've never forgotten those words. A majority of Americans know how true they are. According to the American Library Association, 66 percent of us use one of the nation's 15,000-plus public libraries annually. And the usage numbers go up each year.

"But finding the books we need or want, when we want them, is getting harder. Our libraries are in trouble. And we'd better take notice and remedy the situation before one of our nation's most precious assets becomes a skinny shell of its old self." (John Jakes in Parade Magazine).

Wistaria Fete Committee sets 'Swan Song' meeting

By Fran Syverson

Call it a debriefing session, a wrap-up meeting, a swan song, or what you will—the Wistaria Fete Committee will gather Monday, Arp. 11, to take a found look backward at the 1994 Centennial Fete.

Shelby Pope, in calling the meeting, also urges any and all people who were volunteers to bring their ideas and comments to the 7:30 p.m. meeting in the Recreation Center lounge.

The Wistaria Fete Committee was organized in 1990 at the inspiration and instigation of the late Jan Maddox, wistaria enthusiast. Its express purpose was to work toward a centennial celebration of the planting of the famous Sierra Madre vine. That goal has been accomplished, and members now will determine its own future, if any.

The evening promises to be a meeting to remember!

Urgent call for workers to repair trail

By Phyllis Chapman

"Although not the winter of our discontent," says Mt. Wilson Race Co-chair Rob Stockly, "it has been a severe season in our mountains." Damage from the devastating October fire, the Northridge quake and recent rains has left the trail in urgent need if repair. Only two months remain before the Trail Race, set for Saturday, May 28. So Stockly is sending a clarion call for workers to help repair the trail and get it into shape for the race and for the enjoyment of the many hikers who use the trail.

Please call Stockly, 355-3760, to sign up to work, or just show up any Saturday at 7:30 a.m., at 167 E. Mira Monte (Turtle Park), where the trail begins. Work parties are also scheduled for Sundays, Apr. 10 and May 1, also at 7:30 a.m. All you need to bring is an able body, a willing spirit, and your lunch, water, a pair of work gloves, and sturdy boots or shoes.

"This is a wonderful opportunity to enjoy the camaraderie of fellow hikers and runners, who share a common calling to make the wonders of the San Gabriels available to others," says Stockly. Despite the fire and landslides, the trail is decorated with early signs of rebirth, a California poppy here, a mountain lilac there, and always the sound of water flowing in Little Santa Anita Canyon. Jacarandas will soon be in bloom, and there is no better place to view the splendid sea of purple than our Mt. Wilson Trail. Now is the time to sow our seeds, so to speak, says Stockly.

Trail work is also an ideal way to get in condition for the tough race. Race applications are now available at Sierra Madre City Hall. Race entry fee is $24 with a race logo T-shirt, and $20 without a shirt. Applications must be received at City Hall by Monday, May 9, at 5 p.m. Age divisions for men and women are from 10 to 14 to 60 plus. For further information, call the recreation department at City Hall, 355-7135.

Community invited to honor Teigler at awards ceremony

Karl Teigler, Sierra Madre's "Older American," will be honored on Wednesday, May 11, at 11:30 a.m. in downtown Los Angeles. He is Sierra Madre's representative, one of those receiving this distinction by the county supervisors.

"Older American Recognition Day" is scheduled for a luncheon and awards ceremony that day at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion. All citizens of Sierra Madre are invited to attend the luncheon in support of Teigler. The cost is $25 per person.

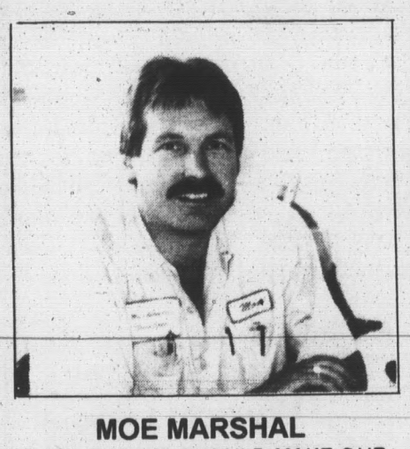

Transportation will be provided by van or bus from city hall free-of-charge. Those who wish to attend should make reservations at the senior desk at city hall between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 pm., daily.

When people ask me what "ASC Certification means, I explain that the term stand for" Automotive Service Council," a private examining board for our type of business. The state of California has no testing or licensing for auto mechanics. When you're certified by ASC that means you've passed their tests and are qualified mechanics. You don't have to worry about being "ripped off" by anyone belonging to this group. Because it is a state-wide regulatory group, we have on file other members in California and can work with all of these members.

89 and still riding

By Phyllis Chapman

Ride 'em cowboy! And if you're 89 years old and your name is Al Molina, your age won't stop you.

Molina, who looks and acts 20 years younger, has been riding horses ever since he can remember. He was born in Arizona and grew up there, and his father always had horses. In February, Molina was invited to head an equestrian unit riding in the 46th Annual Gold Rush Days Parade held in Wickenburg, Ariz. This octogenarian had no trouble handling his horse, which became a little balky when taking their place in the parade. At the parade's end, he was complimented on his good horsemanship.

The Molinas (wife Dorothy is Australian-born), are residents of Sierra Madre's British Home. Al had once lived in Wickenburg, and went back there to assist a brother receiving treatment for cancer. At that time, he renewed his acquaintance with Billie Jean Joyce, wife of actor Stephen Joyce. Stephen Joyce has appeared in many stage plays, and is probably best known for the lead role of Billy in the movie "Billy the Kid." The Joyces have a lovely home in Wickenburg, part of their Lazy J Ranch. They invited Al to go riding with them, and then invited him to head their equestrian unit representing the Lazy U in the parade, an event viewed by 40,000 people.

Wickenburg is 55 miles northwest of Phoenix. The Apache Indians traveled and hunted through the region long before the coming of the Spanish (Joyces' daughter was dressed as an Apache in the parade). Then came the hunters and trappers, followed by prospectors and miners, and finally the homes and ranches. Today, Wickenburg is the dude ranch capital of the world.

Al was born in Kofa, Ariz., in 1905, when it had been a rich gold mining center, and then the mine petered out. Today, there is nothing there, says Al. He and his brother have made trips there on horseback, being gone for one or two weeks at a time, and taking along enough feed for the horses and supplies.

In 1916, his family moved to Wickenburg. With WWI in progress, his father had mule teams hauling much needed copper from the mine there for the war. Al's first schooling took place in a building that had been a former Butterfield Stage stop, and with eight other children. He also went to a school in Wickenburg in a building that was once a saloon. It was great fun to dig the bullets out of the walls with their pen knife, so you know this was the wild west.

He then boarded with an aunt in Phoenix so he could attend high school. Our former mayor, Charles Corp, attended this same high school a number of years later.

When drought and hard times hit Arizona, Al decided to go to sea joining the Merchant Marine. So it was from the desert to the sea for Al. Later, he was made chief purser for the Matson Line. He was a Chief Boatswain Mate in the Navy during WWII, first serving in the South Pacific and then on duty training men. He returned to Matson after the war and when he retired he had been with the line for 45 years.

His wife Dorothy (she, too, has a wonderful, exciting story to tell), was an R.N. and happened to be living in San Francisco when they met. Being from Australia, she also rode horses and had been in shows, so that when she met Al in 1950, they had a great common ground. Whenever she made trips back to Australia to visit her family, she naturally traveled on Al's ship. Then when Al was on leave, he not only rode horses, he also courted Dorothy.

They first learned about our British Home here when visiting friends, and became residents in 1985. It's been a home base for them, because they have traveled extensively and have friends to visit all over the world and in the U.S., and can boast a winner or two at the Kentucky Derby. One adventurous trip was to drive from San Francisco on the Pan Pacific Highway to Guatemala. It has been a wonderful life, and you can see how happy these two people are together.

Al is a very modest man who didn't think we should be writing about him, but Dorothy thought otherwise. He says, though, that "Dorothy is great fun, and has so much zip!"

This man has rode a lot of bucking horses in his day, but at the present time, does not own a horse of his own. Dorothy wishes very much that he would get his own horse.

I wish Al would, too. I wish Al would ride in our Sierra Madre July 4th Parade. I would really look forward to that!

Al Molina still rides at the age of 89.

Sanwa Bank provides new homes for old landmarks

Early 20th century paintings by Sierra Madre's own Alfred James Dewey now have some beautiful new "homes" at Sanwa Bank California's local office, according to Emelita Bituin, president and branch manager. The paintings have all been reframed.

"We've reframed them out of appreciation for their value to the community," she said. "What makes them especially important as collectors items is Mr. Dewey's recognition as a master painter in Southern California who loved Sierra Madre. It is a pleasure to have them in our office, and we always welcome visitors who would like to view them."

The office is located at 100 West Sierra Madre Boulevard, between Baldwin and Michellinda. The hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and Friday from 9 a.m until 6 p.m.

Sanwa Bank California is the state's sixth largest bank, with $7.5 billion is assets and the best capital ratio among the state's major banks. Sanwa provides full-service banking to retail and commercial customers in over 100 branches and loan centers statewide.

Jim Hester

SIERRA MADRE CITY COUNCIL

● Jim Hester has demonstrated his leadership qualities on the Sierra Madre Planning Commission during the past eight years. As your councilman he will continue to apply his professional skills and experience for orderly management of our village.

● The annual audit of the City's financial records shows an operating deficit of nearly half a million dollars in the general fund, and a 1.3 million dollars cash overdraft in the Water Fund. Jim Hester pledges to worK toward eliminating these deficits and make the City fiscally sound by better managing existing resources and prudent cost cutting.

● The auditors' report also states that the City did not reconcile its checking account for a period of fourteen months. This is inexcusable. Good financial records must be kept. Jim Hester will make sure that the City's check book is balanced.

● Jim Hester pledges to keep our own Police and Volunteer Fire Departments; they are among the finest in Los Angeles County.

● We need a vital and prosperous downtown. Jim Hester pledges to make sure that the City gets the best value for its money and will not let contractors overcharge or take advantage of the City.

● Jim Hester pledges to support the City's business people in their efforts to market and revitalize our downtown business district.

● Jim Hester pledges to make sure that the City does things in a lawful manner, asserts its legal rights and will stand up to those who bully the City with threats of legal action.

● Jim Hester has been a leader on the Planning Commission in the fight against oversized houses on small lots. He pledges to continue with this policy in the future as your City Councilman.

● Jim Hester has proven management abilities. He has successfully run the local office of a major state wide law firm.

The real issue in this election is VISION. Will the City plan for the future with Vision or will it deal with issues only when they become a crisis? Over the last years the City Council has had to deal with one crisis after another. If there had been Vision, Foresight and Planning during the past years, these crises could have been avoided. Let's not return to the past!

Civic Club party trumpets golden anniversary

By Phyllis Chapman

Sierra Madre Civic Club, celebrating a 50th birthday, trumpets its Annual Benefit Luncheon and Chinese Auction as "Our Golden Fanfare." The special party will be Saturday, Apr. 16, 11:30 a.m., at St. Rita's O'Malley Hall.

Tickets are $12 each and limited to the capacity of the hall. For information, please call one of the people in charge of tickets, either Judie Cimino, 355-1595, Sharon Lefler, 852-0356 or Linda Wochnik, 355-6125. All proceeds from the benefit are donated to club philanthropies.

Co-chairs of the event are Kathy Brundage and Darlene Traxler. Golden trumpets are among the decorations being used by decoration chair Lynette Englert to carry out the anniversary theme. Tickets designed by artist member Vickie Vernon also feature trumpets.

Delicious and abundant salads add to the popularity of this luncheon, always a sellout, and in charge of kitchen activity are Joan Crow, Marlene Enmark and Shirley McGillicuddy. Kim Rogers will direct cleanup when the party is over. Anita Thompson again fills the roll of auctioneer for the Chinese Auction.

For those wondering how a Chinese Auction is conducted, it goes something like this: every person in attendance receives a decorated stick with their number on it. As items come up for auction, a bid is set by the auctioneer of anywhere from five cents to over one dollar. If you wish to bid on an item, you place the amount of money that has been set in a basket that will be on your table and hold up your numbered stick.

A number will be drawn from a revolving drum. If your number is called, you win the item. You must, however, bid to win, otherwise another number will be drawn. All drawn numbers are returned to the drum for each drawing.

This is an easy way to bid and possibly win, without spending a lot of money. Auctioneer Thompson, known for her skill and sense of humor, keeps the action lively and fun. Kathleen Coyne and Darlys Brechwald chair the collection of auction items, and quality is emphasized.

For 50 years, Civic Club has worked to help make a difference in our community. In this birthday year, they can look back proudly on the many devoted and untold number of volunteer hours they have given for numerous activities in Sierra Madre, and the thousands of dollars they have managed to raise and donate to so many worthy causes.

Birdwalk at Eaton Canyon

A free birdwalk led by Hill Penfold and other enthusiastic "birders" will take place on Sunday, Apr. 17, 8 a.m. at Eaton Canyon Nature Center at 1750 N. Altadena Dr., Pasadena. There is a $3 parking fee.

Those who wish to participate should meet at the flagpole, bringing their own binoculars and water. Hiking shoes are helpful. Dogs are not allowed because they will scare off the birds.

For more information please call (818) 821-3246 weekdays.

Moonlight walk at Eaton Canyon

Sunday, Apr. 24, is the date set for the moonlight walk at Eaton Canyon Nature Center, 1750 N. Altadena Dr., Pasadena. The time is between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. There is a $2 donation.

Larry Shaffer, Lu Case and other naturalists will lead the walk to see Eaton Canyon and its night inhabitants. Bring a flashlight and water but no dogs, please.

Those who wish more information should call (818) 821-3246.

Pet Corner

Ask Dr. Tami . . .

Dear Dr. Tami,
I recently inherited a desert tortoise. The previous owner advised not to feed lettuce, but I thought tortoises liked lettuce. Is this ok?

While it is true that tortoises like lettuce the way people like donuts, in neither case is there much nutritional value. Wild tortoises consume a high-roughage, moderate-protein, low fat diet; this can only be approximated in captivity. Adult tortoises should be allowed to graze on grass lawns or wild grasses. Dandelions, clover, alfalfa hay, rose petals, hibiscus and nasturtium flowers are all good "natural" food. Thawed frozen vegetables, sprouts, spinach, Swiss chard, tofu soybean curd, and occasional fruits and melons are good sources also. Good occasional protein supplements are water-packed tuna, diced chicken, and low fat dry dog food. An excellent low-fat cereal, and egg based supplement is expanded (soaked) monkey biscuits (Zu Preem Primate Dry by Hill's) instead of dry dog food. As with herbivorous reptiles, a vitamin suitable for reptiles should be sprinkled on moistened food. Hatchlings do well with expanded guinea pig chow plus the grasses, vegetables, and flowers as above. AVOID lettuce of all types, cabbage, celery and cucumber. Tenet: 90% of all reptile medical problems are due to improper diet and husbandry.

Hi! My name is Larry, a male 8 year old, tricolor shetland sheepdog. I'm a very quiet, loving and gentle dog. I am also very intelligent. If you read USA today this week, I'm sure you saw the article about the most intelligent dogs. I ranked #1. So you see, I'm quite highly regarded in the dog world. As you can see by the photo, I'm quite good looking. Please come in and see me. I know you won't be disappointed. I'll be loyal to you and your family forever. Hurry! My kennel # is S014927

SIERRA MADRE CITY COUNCIL CANDIDATE

PLEASE JOIN US TO RE-ELECT

GARY ADAMS

April 7, 1994

Fellow Sierra Madreans,

The issue, in the current City Council election, is Sierra Madre. The preservation and future of our village community will be determined by the April 12 ballot.

I am currently a member of our City Council and I am working hard to protect our community. Our next Council needs to continue providing solutions to issues facing us as residents and homeowners. Financial Responsibility and Budget Management, Residential Development, Street Repair, and Maintaining Our Own Police Department, are issues that must be addressed and resolved in a positive manner. Prompt and Courteous Service needs to be offered, by city employees, to citizens requesting or needing assistance.

Water is one of our most Precious Resources. New agreements and formulas must be executed to insure an adequate supply of quality water now and in future years.

I Pledge to you, as a member of the next Council, to work in the interest of Planning and Preserving the Future of Sierra Madre and our quality of life, which we all enjoy and treasure.

With kindest regards.

Solis appointed to position of fire inspector

Fire inspector Sandy Solis

Sandy Solis, who has worked for the city of Sierra Madre for six years, has recently been appointed to the position of fire inspector. She fills a position left open when Barry Spriggs was hired by Arcadia Fire Department as a fire tech.

Rich Snyder is the other fire inspector for Sierra Madre.

Solis started as an Emergency Medical Technician in the Fire Department and as fire prevention secretary. She also did relief work on water bills, and pitched in for those on vacation. For a short while she was part of the finance department before her recent appointment.

"I'm still doing rescue and fire response but now I'm clearly fire inspector, doing sprinkler inspection and commercial building inspection. My work is life safety; that's why I view new homes, businesses, apartments for sprinkler safety," Solis said.

The new fire inspector was born in Los Angeles and attended Catholic schools, then attended Pasadena City College, working toward an Associated Science Degree in fire. She hopes to have her degree within the next two years.

What is the Alhambran's goal? "To become really involved in fire administration, that is, in investigation," she answered.

Has being a woman hampered her career in any way? "I have a good working relationship with the guys. I had to prove myself and I know my limitations. I'm not afraid to say I can't do something and that I need help."

Her parents live in Pico Rivera where her mother works for JC Penney's and her father was a commissioner of Pico Rivera. She has an older married brother, a younger brother and sister.

What does Solis do in her "off" time? "I love to travel. I get teased about my long weekends. I enjoy visiting friends in Temecula and recently went to Hawaii. I also like to spend time with family and friends. Something that I am really enjoying is the ceramics class with the Alhambra Adult School."

When you're in city hall next, stop in and congratulate Sandy Solis on her new position.

Wine auction to benefit Opera

An extraordinary auction of fine international wines and wine-related travel/dining packages will be held as a benefit for the Los Angeles Music Center Opera on Sunday, Apr. 17, at 4 p.m. at the Biltmore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles. Peter Hemmings is general director of the opera. Honorary co-chairmen are film director Francis Ford Coppola, who owns a Northern California vineyard, and Joe Smith of Unison Productions.

Live and silent auctions will feature an extensive selection of rare vintage wines, local wines, exclusive private tours of vineyards in California and France, and travel and dining packages. Ursula Hermancinski of Christie's will conduct the live auction.

There will be gourmet food prepared by eight famous Los Angeles chefs/restauranteurs, and tastings from California's finest vineyards will also highlight the event. Entertainment will be provided by L.A. Opera resident artists.

Tickets to the event are $150 per person and may be obtained by calling (213) 972-7219.

Caltech Jazz Bands perform in Old Pasadena

The Caltech Jazz Bands will present an evening of big band music on Sunday, Apr. 17, at the Pasadena jazz club, the Baked Potato. there will be music starting at 8:30 p.m., and it will continue until midnight. Guest soloist for the evening will be vocalist Angie Whitney.

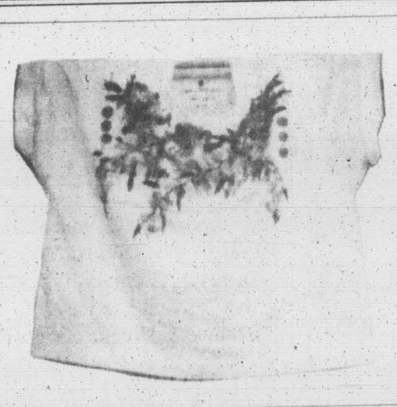

The Baked Potato is located at 26 East Colorado Boulevard in Pasadena. Admission will be $8, and $4 for students. Reservations are recommended.

Jacobsen-Huse joins Red Cross management

Jennie Jacobsen-Huse of Sierra Madre has been appointed manager of the Tri-Community Service Center of the American Red Cross.

Jacobsen-Huse was formerly with the city of Irvine, where she served as a Community Service Supervisor, managing the city's aquatic program and other municipal recreation activities. She has been a Red Cross volunteer for 24 years. In her tenure with the Red Cross, Jacobsen-Huse served as a health and safety instructor and a member of the San Gabriel Chapter's Health and Safety Committee.

Jacobsen-Huse explained that with her appointment as Service Center Manager, she hopes to increase the number of volunteers serving the cities in the Tri-Community service area and raise the visibility of the Red Cross.

The Tri-Community Service Center serves the cities of Azusa, Charter Oak, Covina, Glendora, Hacienda Heights, Rowland Heights and West Covina. The center is located at 1838 Workman Avenue, and is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Know your postal worker

By Barry Schwam

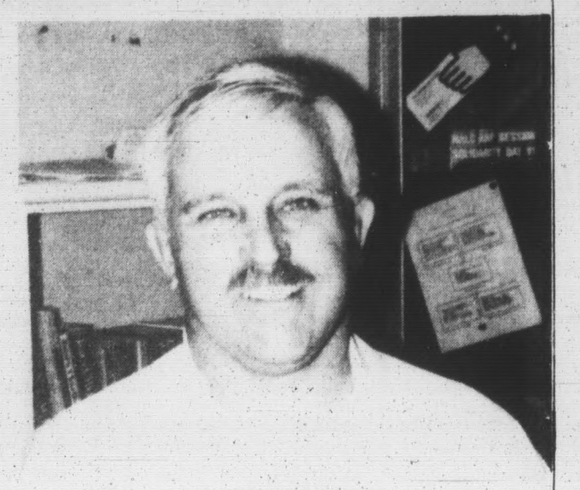

Pat Meehan is our Sierra Madre postal worker of the week, with three years in Sierra Madre and another 22 years in Temple City and Sonora. His job is to fill in for other carriers on as many as five different routes.

Being with the post office for so many years, Pat recalls that when he started around the late '60s, the post office was still run as a government agency like the FCC or the FDA. But as competition began to increase, the post office had to change from being strictly a service agency to being run more like a business, with the new goal of showing a profit.

But even after 24 years later, sending a letter 3000 miles for 29 cents is the bargain of the century.

Aside from his work at the post office, Meehan is an elder at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Arcadia, and is also a contest "buff." He enters as many contests as he can, and one recently paid off big. He entered a contest that required contestants to fill in a caption under a cartoon. His entry won first place and a trip to London and Paris.

Pat is married and has four boys. His wife's mother was Sierra Madre Queen in the Fourth of July Parade in the late 1930s. His wife's name is Tessa.

St. Rita's

Easter Sunday! What a glorious day for Christians! In the joy of commemorating this momentous event, it is worthwhile to reflect on Cardinal Roger Mahony's recent remarks in the Tidings...

"We in Los Angeles may not have realized that earthquakes accompanied the Death and Resurrection of Jesus, thus bringing about our own redemption. For all of us in the year 1994, we can surely relate to those events surrounding the Paschal Mystery of Jesus Christ. We know the power, force and destructive potential of earthquakes—and their never-ending aftershocks. Unfortunately, all we know about earthquakes is harmful and disastrous.

But this year we need to focus upon the life-giving dimension of earthquakes, their power to change our lives, indeed, to save us. It was through two earthquakes that our salvation was heralded; immediately following Jesus' death, and just before his resurrection from the dead—events that changed the course of human history forever.

As we reflect on these life-giving events in Jesus' life this year, let our hearts and lives continue to be changed positively following our own earthquakes:

- Let our spirit of hope be deepened and strengthened in the gift of new life we now share in Jesus Christ!
- Let our care and concern for family members, neighbors and one another be given new expression in the weeks to come!
- Let our reliance upon material good be tempered, and our life of prayer and discipleship with Jesus continue to grow!
- Let us live out our lives as believers in the Risen Christ, and let us share this joy and hopefulness with one another in ways that are ever inspiring and life-giving!"

Sierra Madre United Methodist

By Pastor Rich LaShure

This Sunday we'll look at the Gospel story of the disciples on the Emmaus road. It was after Easter, but they had not witnessed the Resurrection themselves. Walking along that dusty byway, they met a stranger who spoke freely with them and taught them many things. Later, they shared supper with the man, and as they broke bread they realized it was Jesus. Then he vanished from their sight.

It's hard to understand how two of the closest followers of Jesus could fail to recognize him. Yet there's a real lesson in this for us all: sometimes we fail to recognize the obvious. We literally cannot see what is right in front of our noses.

Do you feel overloaded and overwhelmed? It could be that the resources you need to get back on top of life are right at your very fingertips.

This Sunday is also Communion Sunday. The Aldersgate Choir, under the direction of Fred Copeland, will perform the Easter anthem "Via Dolorosa."

Worship with us this Sunday—find God, find yourself, and find a friend!

Good Shepherd

The Rev. Dr. James W. Dallas will preach at Church of the Good Shepherd worship at 8 and 10 a.m. Sunday, Apr. 10, and will also lead the Good Shepherd Adult Forum at 9 a.m.

Associate pastor Rev. James K. Thomann will hold Bible Study for adults at 9 a.m.

Children may attend the "Discovery Hour" at 9 a.m. while their parents are in the Education Hour classes, and children's church school at 10 a.m. Child care is available all three hours.

Junior and senior high students hold their meeting at 10 a.m.

A coffee hour after the 10 o'clock service provides a time of fellowship for congregation and visitors.

The Rev. Matthew Chong leads Mandarin Chinese worship at 11:15 a.m. in the Chapel.

Church of the Good Shepherd is at 400 W. Duarte road, Arcadia. For more information, phone the church office, (818) 447-2181, weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Quints one in 85 million

Scientists estimate quintuplets occur only once in every 85 million births.

Gloria Dei Lutheran

A couple of decades ago, a terrible railroad accident occurred in which many people were killed and numerous more injured. It seems a commuter train had stalled on the tracks just a few minutes before a fast freight was due to arrive. A conductor was quickly sent to flag down the rapidly approaching freight. Being assured that all was well, the passengers relaxed. Suddenly, however, the speeding freight train came bearing down upon them. The ensuing crash left a ghastly scene of horror as tons of twisted steel entombed the torn bodies of the passengers.

The engineer of the freight rain who escaped death by jumping from the cab of the locomotive just before impact was subpoenaed to a court hearing to determine why he hadn't stopped.

"I saw a man waving a flag," he said, "but it was yellow, so I thought he just wanted me to slow down." When the flag was examined by the court, the mystery was explained. It had once been red, but because of prolonged exposure to the sun and weather, it had become a dirty yellow.

Dr. Harry Ironside commented on this incident, thusly: "Oh, the lives eternally wrecked by the 'yellow gospels' we are hearing today—the bloodless theories of unregenerated men that send their hearers to their doom instead of stopping them on the downward road."

Today, we hear many anemic "yellow gospels" of works-based salvation and popular modern liberal theology. Don't be deceived by these yellow gospels, for only Christ and His sacrifice on the cross can redeem your soul (Romans 5:8-9).

David Livingstone once remarked about Jesus: "He is the greatest master I have ever known. If there is anyone greater, I do not know him. Jesus Christ is the only master supremely worth serving. He is the only ideal that never loses its inspiration. He is the only friend whose friendship meets every demand. He is the only Savior who can save the uttermost. We go forth in His name, in His power, in His Spirit to serve Him."

Won't you join us in worshipping and serving Him at 11 a.m. this Sunday?

Obituaries

Thomas Williams III

Thomas William Williams III died Mar. 28 at Methodist Hospital after a short illness. He was known among friends in Sierra Madre as a champion of this village, having written several letters about the attributes of Sierra Madre. He was also known for his special love of animals.

Mr. Williams was born in San Diego, Aug. 25, 1928. His father, an Air-Naval careerman, retired and moved his wife, Sadie, and their three sons, Tom, Richard and Stanley, to Catalina Island to fly passenger seaplanes from Catalina to Long Beach and back. Tom developed a lifelong passion for seafishing at a very early age and pulled his red wagon door-to-door, selling fish.

He attended Duke University and graduated from Utah University. He loved sports and played football and basketball during his school years, later becoming an enthusiastic downhill skier and scuba diver. Mr. Williams was also an avid gardener, a passionate lover of nature's beauty, and an animal lover. He had many pets, including an opossum, and was a supporter of the Opossum Society of the United States, and the Humane Society of Pasadena.

While residing in San Diego with his parents, he met his bride-to-be, Suzanne Luckie, at the Coronado Hotel on Coronado Island, and they were married in 1951. He joined the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. in 1951 and worked for them for 38 years. Mr. Williams became a field representative for the industrial products division and later became Los Angeles district manager whose territory included Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah.

He was able to travel extensively throughout the mining areas of the west and began collecting early mining pictures, miners' lamps and candlesticks. There was a recent article in The News, authored by Phyllis Chapman, about his collection.

After a year's retirement, Mr. Williams worked as a consultant for the Berg-Nelson Co. in Long Beach. He and his wife have enjoyed living in Sierra Madre immensely.

His friends knew of his ready wit and charming personality. He will be missed deeply by his friends and family.

At his request, there will be no services, and his ashes will be scattered off Catalina Island.

Those who wish to remember Mr. Williams with a memorial may wish to make a donation to the Pasadena Humane Society.

Thomas Rose

A memorial mass for Thomas Rose is scheduled at St. Rita Church tomorrow, Friday, Apr. 8, at 10 a.m. Mr. Rose died Apr. 1 at Sierra Madre Skilled Nursing Facility.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; sons, Clarkson and Marshall of Sierra Madre and Bradford of Monrovia. Daughters who survive include Cecelia Drohan of Arcadia and Suzanne Levoe of Sierra Madre. Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

His family and friends describe him as "a gentle giant who walked softly."

"For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord" Romans 6:23. This unchanging message of God's Law pointing out your damnationworthy sin, and the Good News or Gospel of Jesus Christ, God's eternal Son, paying for your sin totally - this is the most important message you still need to hear and which we still preach without modernistic, faddish or sectarian additions, subtractions, or compromises at Gloria Del Lutheran Church, 186 W. Highland Ave., Sierra Madre. Our worship hour on Sunday morning is 11 A.M. with Sunday School for all ages preceding at 10 A.M. For more information call (818) 355-9515 or (818) 355-2107. Visitors are always welcome. A special class Bible Studies of the Gospel of Mark, every Thursday morning from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

CITY OF SIERRA MADRE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of Sierra Madre will conduct a public hearing on Tuesday, April 12, 1994 at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers of City Hall, 232 W. Sierra Madre Boulevard, to receive public comments concerning the Ad Hoc Transportation Task Force's proposal for the City's transportation program.

Their proposal includes the following recommendations: requiring service providers to maintain policies and procedures which serve to protect providers, their passengers, and the City from injury, financial liability, and/or untoward events; reducing the number of service providers from three to two; establishing a two mile service area for taxi and non-medical service; continued subsidization of excursions for Seniors and Day Camp children; transfer responsibility for transportation of After School children to the Parks and Recreation Department; Increase fares; re-institute a voucher payment system; and establish a 6 month evaluation period of the program.

The Task Force's proposal is available for review in the City Hall Administrative Offices. Interested persons are invited to attend this meeting and make comment to the City Council regarding this item.

Tim Anderson...Can put a roof over your head

By Barry Schwam

"Roofing By Tim Anderson" sounds top notch, doesn't it? That's because owner and operator Tim Anderson has been doing roofing in Sierra Madre for the past 19 years. He will do all types of roofing from shingle to title composition to the new modified roofing system which is extremely flexible, holds up better, and never blisters, cracks, or peels.

Tim works with a small crew and is on site at every job. And, unlike some roofers who do roofing as just a side line, Tim does roofing full-time and is fully licensed and insured. In fact, local building inspector Steve Pock recommends Tim as one of the local roofers you should use for any of your roofing jobs.

Tim Anderson

Roofing By Tim Anderson offers good reliable service, a great reputation, and an endless list of references.

Free estimates are gladly given. So, before the roof falls in, better give Tim Anderson a call—you'll be glad you did!

Growing great tomatoes Garden Club program

By Phyllis Chapman

"The difference in taste is day and night," says gardener Julie Carlson, speaking of how tomatoes grown in the garden compare to those purchased in the market. "Market varieties are bred to withstand a greater impact than our automobile bumpers. This breeding for sturdiness and to be disease-resistant sacrifices taste," she continues.

Carlson has been a tomato grower for eight years, propagating 15 to 20 varieties a year. She says that berry-size tomatoes, for example, are so good, she serves them in a bowl like M&Ms, and people go crazy over them.

She will share all this goodness as program speaker at the Sierra Madre Garden Club's dinner meeting Monday, Apr. 11, 6:30 p.m. at Sierra Madre Recreation Center's Fireside Room, 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd. Reservations for anyone interested in attending are welcome, and may be made by calling reservation chair Mary Morris, 355-0772. The catered dinner is $6.50.

After Carlson and her husband purchased their Pasadena home, she became serious about gardening, and took Master Gardener courses through the Dept. of Agriculture and Common Ground. She grew up in Sierra Madre, attending Sierra Madre Community Nursery School and Sierra Madre Elementary School. Her parents are Kenny and Patsy Carlson. She acquired her love of gardening from her grandfather, Inganimar Oleson, who also lived in Sierra Madre.

On Tuesday, Apr. 19, the Garden Club is planning a trip to visit the extensive gardens at the City of Hope in Duarte. The Medical Center began 80 years ago, and the gardens grew with the Facility over the years, as it was regarded as an important part of healing. Garden Director Robert Traut, who formerly taught horticulture at Cal Poly Pomona, will conduct the walking tour. There is also a tram for those who find walking difficult.

One of the garden's highlights is the rose garden, which has 3000 roses, many of which were planted 35 years ago. This will be the beginning of the blooming season. Among other sights to see are many camellias and azaleas, and a Japanese garden.

The tour begins at 10 a.m., and the club is planning to meet on the city parking lot behind Sanwa Bank from where they will car pool. They will leave promptly at 9:30 a.m. Anyone wishing to join the group is also asked to call Morris, 355-0772, so a count can be made of the people planning to attend.

larly that of sitting as a judge, the purpose of the Inns of Court cannot be emphasized enough. "Judges and lawyers occupy an important position in our society. They are depended upon to enforce the laws and for obtaining justice. They must be good, honest and ethical."

When the Garrs attend the meeting in Washington, D.C., they will meet Justices Ruth Baden Ginsberg and Anthony Kennedy, as well as judges and attorneys from local Inns of Court chapters from all over the country. Attorney General Janet Reno will also be in attendance, as well as Solicitor General Kenneth Starr.

The Garrs have just celebrated their seventh wedding anniversary. Bill Garr was born and raised in Upper Hastings Ranch and moved to Sierra Madre in the late 1970s. He graduated as valedictorian from La Salle High School in 1977, and from USC Law School in 1984.

Youth volunteer award applicant deadline draws near Completed applications for the Youth Volunteer Award must be sent or delivered to the office of Congressman David Dreier by Friday, Apr. 22. The office is located at 112 North 2nd Ave., Covina, CA 91723.

Over the last several years Congressman Dreier has held this annual event to recognize and honor the contributions that young people have made to the communities through their volunteer work. This year's award is open to all high school students between the ages of 14 and 18 who live in the 28th Congressional District.

The district consists of the following cities: Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Bradbury, Claremont, Covina, Duarte, Glendora, Industry/Rowland Heights, La Verne, Monrovia, Pasadena (upper and lower Hastings Ranch and unincorporated Sierra Madre Villa, Kinneloa, Chapman Woods and Michillinda Park), part of Pomona, San Dimas, Temple City, West Covina and Walnut.

The office can also be reached by calling (818) 339-9078.

Flea market on Apr. 16 benefits CAG

Foothill Creative Arts group will host its annual flea market, antiques and collectibles sale on Saturday, Apr 16.

Kathy Foresta, sale committee member for the nonprofit group, reports that there are many treasures among the wide variety of items donated for the yearly event. Also on sale will be art work form the many talented students who attend classes at the center.

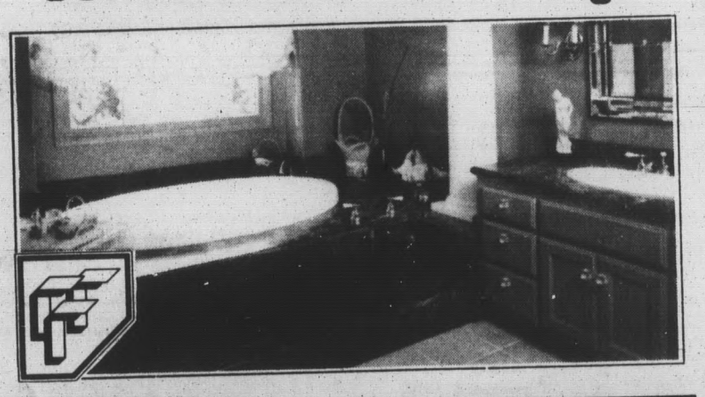

Proceeds from the sale go to support art classes for children and adults. The flea market will be held at the art center, 108 N. Baldwin, Sierra Madre, from 9-3 p.m. Telephone (818) 355-8350 for more information.

placement," he explained.

Adams said that the present City Council directed city staff to balance the budget and that 10 percent of all money will go to replace the reserve.

"We need to look for places to cut," he said.

Adams said that our water supply must be faced and that he has been in favor of keeping our Police Department. Concerning resident development, he is not for mansionization. The development of homes should be based on more than square footage to determine the size of homes.

Incumbent Jim Hester, a Worker's Compensation defense attorney "against fraudulent claims," said that as a Planning Commission member he has worked on R-3 development standards to help restrict the number of condos and that his work in adopting Historical Overlay Districts has assisted in preserving landmarks in Sierra Madre.

He and the late Eloise Parker wrote the first draft of the Hillside Ordinance that protects our hillsides.

"We are now in the process of establishing R-1 development standards," Hester said.

One of the city's major problems is its finances. "We are running on a deficit," he said, and continued that he, as a City Council member, "would work with the people of the community to resolve that problem."

Incumbent MaryAnn MacGillivray said she had outlined 10 action items that had happened during her four years on the City Council. "You have to know where you've been to know where you're going," she said.

MacGillivray explained that the city's new accounting system would solve some of the city's past financial problems. She pointed to the (city) staff accountability system recently adopted and referred to the new police chief (Joe Surgent) who is working on staffing his department. "We need to allow the chief to look at procedures."

MacGillivray also said rehabilitation and maintenance of the water system is of the utmost importance. "This is the time to negotiate for a supplemental system."

She would like to see a senior's action group and said that we need to remember that the youth in our community are our future.

"Look to new revenues, open your minds. We need to provide new revenue for the city," she concluded.

Challenger Roy Buchan said he was "so glad" we have our own Police Department and explained that we have the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department available on request.

"We've called them here for homicides and we had the SWAT team here. We've also had them to help direct traffic during the fire. We have the best of both worlds," he said.

Buchan said he had seen a map of the city with R-3 development areas colored out. "A lot of it is undeveloped for multiple family units. Since the General Plan says we could support up to 15,000 people, how much water would that take? Sierra Madre uses 1½ million gallons of water per day. An increase of 5000 people would swell that amount to 3.75 millions of gallons per day...Our water supply would last nine months. What we need is more water and less development—a little of both," Buchan stated.

In the question and answer session Tuesday at Kiwanis, a question was asked concerning "financial anarchy at city hall, overpaying Western Waste for a number of years. Is anyone responsible for that oversight? What have we auditors for?"

MacGillivray pointed to the article in the Sierra Madre News to which he referred as "historical perspective of the '92-'93 budget. "There were errors to the point of blame. There were people responsible for the errors. We changed city administration. Look at the '93-'94 budget. We had auditors to point out (some of the problems). Some (problems) were not acted on in a timely manner and the result was errors. In the '94-'95 budget we fixed the errors. Systems have been rearranged to avoid previous problems. We are going to avoid further pitfalls."

Adams said, "Concerning Western Waste and its overpayment, money was collected on a bi-monthly basis. Instead of remitting $2, only $1 was remitted. The money is in the city in a trust account. We have had it. Concerning finances, the lack of money was due to property tax and lawsuits. Governments move money from one fund to another. It has to be repaid the year it's moved out. Auditors caught that for us. No one was taking money. It was a problem with tracking and so we changed software. It is cleaned up now. One employee is no longer with the city. We need to fix the problem and not necessarily fix the blame."

To the question of what is the basic plan of the City Council to assist the retailers and the Chamber of Commerce, and what are the thoughts about DRC (Design Review Committee)?

Hester asked what the businesses think should be done. "The city's position is to listen and give them support of what needs to be done, such as better lights so they can stay open nights, no barriers for new appropriate businesses. We need a drug store to stay open on Saturdays and late enough to get a prescription filled here. The Economic Development Committee has some good ideas. I'm against the DRC if it means keeping businesses out of town. If the DRC is only trying to keep an attractive downtown, I'm for it."

Buchan answered, "I can remember when you could buy everything here. The problem today is that you have no choice and yet you have five liquor stores. You need more retail choice. We should have a retail area to pull in Hastings Ranch and Arcadia Oaks. We could be another Carmel. They have no parking but the stores are all busy. We could do that here."

Adams said, "Nothing attracts business more than good businesses. When the old city hall was open, we talked to many people including a restaurant who talked about coming in there but with no restaurants nearby, they wouldn't come in. The City Council needs to work with the businesses and help them improve. Concerning the DRC, I go back and forth."

MacGillivray answered that question by saying she was looking at the EDC (Economic Development Council) for guidance. She believes there should be an "appropriate mix between retail and service."

Concerning retail businesses, she said we should think of ways to bring in young families and singles. There should be an activity-based cornerfront with a shopping base..."Bring people in with their money."

MacGillivray said that DRC was "in the wrong place. It should be in the planning process of the city."

How to attract new business to Sierra Madre? Bill Tice said he thought the city needed a "cheap auto and appliance store." He believes that the town needs a historical theme set in the middle of the village.

Hester said that marketing was not just for shoppers but for existing businesses. He suggested more shops such as a bike shop, sports shop, hobby shop, restaurants. "We've got to sell the city, the chamber of commerce and the city. There are trade shows in Pasadena to teach us about marketing...We need more types of promotions such as the Wistaria Fete."

MacGillivray said, "One of the most important things is community acceptance. We have a difficult time accepting change and supporting what we bring in. We need to support the community. If we have ideas, it is a slow process to get acceptance moving. We need community willingness to support what we have here."

Buchan answered that the EDC report was due in June. He thinks EDC will do the job.

Adams said that the key was in finding businesses that would fit in with the ones we have. Businesses will succeed if the businesses next door are strong and vital.

If retail businesses bring in sales tax, what do service businesses bring in, was one question.

Hester explained that he doesn't understand why service businesses should be exempt from sales tax and said that problem must be cured on the state level.

Adams said that sales tax in Sierra Madre amounts to $150,000 to $170,000. "We could triple it and still not be able to cover what we need."

Someone asked about CRA money and where it goes. Buchan said that CRA money can be used for any purpose in Sierra Madre if it is in the best interest of the city.

MacGillivray said there that there is $1½ million in CRA.

Dear Ken,
Thank you for being able to see what our kitchen would look like even before you started and sharing with us every detail along the way. We stood in constant amazement as our beautiful new kitchen unfolded.
Thank you for the care when you isolated the construction dirt and dust and how you kept the place clean and livable through the whole process.
And thank you that it didn't take "forever" to complete the job.
We are very very pleased with the finished project.

Edda Hutson

In the midst of an uncertain economy, Edda Hutson of Century 21 Village Realty has distinguished herself among her peers by earning the Centurion award for the third consecutive year. This is one of the highest levels of recognition awarded to top-producing associates in the Century 21 system.

To be considered for Centurion status, a sales associate must achieve a specified high level of production, which is reached by providing exceptional customer service. Only two percent of the 10s of thousands of sales associates in the Century 21 system achieve this honor.

"This has been my best year since starting my real estate career," said Hutson. "Quality service has always been my number one priority. This award is a direct result of consistently exceeding my customers' expectations."

Effectiveness training for women

Neighborhood Church of Pasadena is sponsoring a 12-session course designed to help women over 50 identify their needs and acquire skills to deal effectively with life issues. Sessions will begin Apr. 12 at the church and will be held Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to noon.

There will be a small sliding scale fee for the course and materials. For reservations and further information, please call (818) 441-3542 or (818) 440-3470.

THE 'SIGN OF THE TIMES' — When Doug Hayes called Tuesday to inform The News about a pile of campaign signs at Hermosa and Orange Grove, we expected Sierra Madre signs. The photo will reveal Arcadia City Council candidates' signs, heaped together, following a supposed harvesting early Tuesday. Pranksters were out early, collecting. Hayes asked, "Is this the sign of the times?" It looks that way.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: SARAH E. HANSEN AKA SALLY HANSEN CASE NO. GP003577

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: SARAH E. HANSEN AKA SALLY HANSEN
A PETITION has been filed by CHRISTIAN V. HANSEN AKA C. V. HANSEN in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles.
THE PETITION requests that CHRISTIAN V. HANSEN AKA C. V. HANSEN be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 27, 1994 at 10:00 A.M. in Dept. A located at 300 E. Walnut St. Pasadena CA 91101.
IF YOU OBJECT TO the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

California Environmental Quality Act
Negative Declaration

Applicant: City of Sierra Madre, CA
Project: Project Number 88-2-19028
The recreation and Public Works Departments of the City of Sierra Madre considered rescoping a Capital Improvement Project to upgrade and enhance the Recreation Center and Pool located at 611 E. Sierra Madre Boulevard, Sierra Madre, California. Sierra Vista Park is owned and maintained by the City of Sierra Madre and contains a recreation center and pool that are utilized by the community as during daytime and nighttime hours.

Pursuant to the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and the CBQA Guidelines of the City of Sierra Madre, the Assistant City Administrator has analyzed the above project and determined that the project will not have significant impact on the environment. Based upon the initial study the project will not have a significant impact on the environment. Based upon the initial study the project will not adversely impact fish and wildlife resources in the City of Sierra Madre.

Any person may file a response to the Negative Declaration with the Department of Parks and Recreation within the time limits mandated by State law but no longer than 21 days of this notice commencing on April 4, 1994. The response must be in writing and state the environmental factor(s) based. A copy of the initial study and project is on file in the Department of Parks and Recreation, City Hall, 232 West Sierra Madre Boulevard, Sierra Madre, California.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: GAE MYRA COOPER AKA GAE MYRA HARTZELL AKA GRANDY COOPER CASE NO. GP003596

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of: GAE MYRA COOPER AKA GAE MYRA HARTZELL AKA GRANDY COOPER
A PETITION has been filed by VIRGINIA SUHL POWELL in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles.
THE PETITION requests that VIRGINIA SUHL POWELL be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on May 4, 1994 at 10:00 A.M. in Dept. A located at 300 E. Walnut St. Pasadena CA 91101.
IF YOU OBJECT TO the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Edwards to bring monthly travel article

Megan Edwards, long-time Sierra Madrean, will be writing a monthly column for the Sierra Madre News while she and her husband, Mark Sedenquist, travel the United States in an RV. They are taking a year off for this pleasure because of a disaster in their family on Oct. 27, 1993. Along with hundreds of others in the hills above Pasadena, their home and their business were lost during the firestorm that swept through the hills, destroying everything in its path.

"The fire was so swift that by the time we realized our home was threatened, we had fewer than 15 minutes to collect what we could and leave. What that meant was that aside from an odd collection of clothing and whatever happened to be in our cars, we lost everything," Edwards explained.

They also lost their new business called Wizards of Wonder which they had started just last summer. They sold puzzles, brain teasers, games and unusual toys for kids, whom they refer to as "aged 6 to 96," at music festivals, county fairs and trade shows.

"Our entire exhibit, computers, equipment and brand new Christmas inventory were all at our house on the fateful day, waiting to be transported to our new venue. Unlike our home, the business was uninsured," she said.

They had options because of the abrupt change in their lives and one of those options became immediately clear: they could travel and enjoy a "home" aboard their new 32-foot RV, custom-designed to meet their needs as they traveled for a year. It has all of the basic amenities as well as an office with computer, fax machine and cellular phone.

On Sunday, Mar. 27, exactly five months to the day after the fire, they christened the Phoenix One, which they named their RV, with the traditional bottle of champagne, and left the following day for their new life on the road.

Edwards grew up in Sierra Madre and attended Ascension School. She graduated from Polytechnic School in 1970 and from Scripps College in Claremont in 1975. Two years later, she received her Master's degree from Claremont Graduate School. After teaching for two years at Gooden School in Sierra Madre, Megan moved to Duesseldorf, Germany, where she taught English and history at an international school. Later, she spent a year in Athens, Greece, teaching school. From 1985 to 1989, she returned to Gooden School where she served as the principal.

She and Mark Sedenquist were married in 1990. She has been a newspaper columnist and freelance writer.

Sedenquist was born in Wyoming and moved to California as a child where he grew up in Hastings Ranch. He attended Don Benito Elementary, Marshall Junior High, and graduated from Pasadena High School in 1972. He graduated from UC Berkeley in 1978. Sedenquist served as a firefighter in the Forest Service for three years in Arizona and California. From 1981 until 1993, he was president of Mohawk Management Corporation, a property management company based in Pasadena.

Since the travelers call their RV "Phoenix One," referring to their rise out of the ashes, The News has named the column Travels Aboard Phoenix One. Look for the first column, from somewhere, the first week of May.

WOULD-BE CURRALTS — Megan Edwards and her husband, Mark Sedenquist, christen Phoenix One which will take them on travels around the United States. They will report in once a month with a travel article called Travels Aboard Phoenix One for The News.

Health Fair in Pasadena

The 17th Annual Health Fair Expo is coming to the Pasadena Senior Center on Friday, Apr. 15. Health screenings and information will be available to anyone 18 years of age and older from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

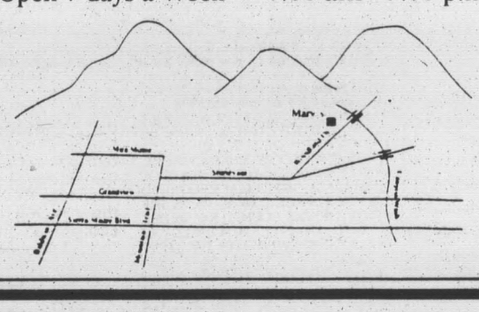

The purpose of Health Fair Expo is to promote preventive health care, to aid in the early detection of any heath abnormalities, to promote health awareness, and to encourage taking action toward better health. Health Fair Expo offers free height, weight, blood pressure, and vision screenings, in addition to numerous health education and information booths. An optional blood test is available for a $5 fee, which will give results on 28 different chemistries, including thyroid function and a cardiac risk profile.

On Stage

By Mary Cogswell Baum

All mystery lovers must sooner or later come to terms with Agatha Christie. Fortunately, her chief detectives seem to dramatize well, and some of the plays are staples of the many little theaters. The precise and individualistic Hercule Poirot has appeared regularly on television, and the cozy and intuitive Miss Marple has been played by actresses as diverse as Angela Lansbury and the late Margaret Rutherford.

Old Town's Knightsbridge Theater has added a less well-known Agatha Christie to its growing list of classics. "Black Coffee" brings us the Amory family: a fluffy and elegant aunt (Jinnie Wilcott), her newly married nephew (Michael McNeill), his half-Italian bride (Lisa Soland), an amorous cousin (Melanie Eubanks) and the head of the family, blustering Sir Claude Amory (Jacy Crawford). When murder strikes, there are plenty of suspects, including the mysterious Dr. Corelli (Richard Joh Scott), the efficient Dr. Graham (Peter Massey) and a quiet servant (Tomi Griffin). Present to solve the puzzle are the jovial Inspector Japp and Jacob Witkin as a non-traditional but delightful Hercule Poirot, not to mention his susceptible assistant (Daniel Sapecky).

The cast is well-chosen and uniformly excellent, the British accents entirely satisfactory and the costumes slickly early '30s. Even the set, more complete than the Knightsbridge average, is convincing. And director Linda Rand has kept the action moving to its complex end.

Mystery fans will be thoroughly satisfied with this one. Drop in before or after your Old Town dinner or shopping.

The Knightsbridge has a policy of many overlapping schedules, and they are also playing "The Elephant Man," the true story of a painfully disfigured man, rescued from a freak show by a curious doctor back in the 1880s in England, who proves to have not only above average intelligence but a real artistic flair. The movie had the benefit of realistic special makeups. The stage play choses to leave much to the imagination by dramatizing the effect of public reaction to his appearance had on his perfectly normal soul.

At certain times, Knightsbridge is also showing a dramatic one-act, "The Thread Men," a literally suspense tale of two men caught in an elevator malfunction.

Their next batch of plays will include "Situation Comedy," "The Ways of the Heart" and the WWII drama "The Hasty Heart."

The schedule is obviously complicated, but a telephone call to 440-0821 will straighten things out. The Knightsbridge group are fine actors and offer a tremendous variety. Check them out.

The theater is in the basement of the nicely decorated turn-of-the-century Braley Building, 35 S. Raymond in Pasadena, with public parking practically next door.

Know your local 'director'

By Barry Schwam

The Sierra Madre Playhouse's current production of "Broadway" is being directed by a very talented and up-and-coming young director, Jerry Morrison. Jerry has directed four plays at S.M.P., and he plans to do more.

His first directing job was at Pierce College, about six years ago. With only one class of formal training, Jerry directed "Ghost Stories," followed by "Lunch Box Theater," where he did plays for the other students during the noon hour.

Aside from his director's positions at Sierra Madre, Jerry has also acted in seven shows here. Plus, he has performed in or directed some 30-plus other shows including community theater, equity waiver, and summer stock. He also is an experienced light and sound tech, and usually runs his own board during the shows he directs.

Just recently, he was hired by the Pioneer Playhouse in Kentucky, one of that state's oldest outdoor theaters, to direct five shows in 10 weeks, plus "second stage" productions on the side.

"I got into directing because I like to see the printed page come to life," says Jerry. "I'll read the script 15 times before I even start to block the play; and I find something new to bring to the production with each new read." Jerry will be graduating from CSUN in liberal studies in December and plans to go on for his MFA in New York. He would like to teach theater arts at the college level. Morrison says he enjoys working at the Sierra Madre Playhouse, but would like to see the time and space better utilized. He would like to use Saturday afternoons to do children's shows, and do storytelling for the visually-impaired. He would also like to see more experimental theater done here, as well as opening up the playhouse for one-act plays.

At the close of "Broadway," Jerry will be heading East, where he'll be directing seven musicals in eight weeks, for one of the most prestigious girls' camps in the state of Maine. He hopes to return to the Sierra Madre Playhouse to direct his first musical here, in the very near future.

Gregory Kathol receives Eagle Scout Award

Gregory R. Kathol's Eagle Scout Court of Honor was held on Sunday, Mar. 13, at St. Rita's Church. In front of many friends, family and fellow scouts, he received the Eagle Scout Award, which is the highest award a scout can receive.

Greg earned 21 merit badges during his six years in scouting with Troop 110 in Sierra Madre. He is also a member of the Order of the Arrow, and has held many leadership responsibilities in the Troop.

Greg's Eagle Scout Project was to coordinate the refurbishing of the outdoor Stations of the Cross at Mater Dolorosa Retreat Center. The project included calculating and acquiring materials and monetary donations, supervising over 20 troop members, family and friends, as well as participating in the refurbishing and laying of hot asphalt for the pathways. The project required over 300 man hours for completion.

Greg is graduating from high school this June and will be attending college in the fall. His scouting career will not end here. He is going to continue as an Assistant Scoutmaster with Troop 110, where he hopes to help other boys on their trail to Eagle Scout.

Celebrate spring at Gooden School

By Laurel Beck

Food, flowers and other bounties of nature will be springing up this month at Gooden School's annual Country Fair and Plant Sale on Saturday, Apr. 23, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at 192 N. Baldwin in Sierra Madre.

Formerly called the Barn Sale, the fundraiser has burgeoned this year into a multifaceted day of bargains and entertainment, featuring a plant sale, barbecue, bread booth, cooking workshop, and floral demonstration—along with fun and games for the kids.

Blooming plants will be offered at reasonable prices, some as low as wholesale. Fair-goers will choose from orchids, roses and a variety of perennials, bedding and native plants. Hand-painted herb and flower boxes, decorated pots and other garden accessories will also be available.

Gooden School's famous Bread Booth, a regular favorite at the Sierra Madre Art Fair, will instead offer its wares at the Country Fair. Over 100 kinds of homebaked breads will be on hand. Past favorites range from apricot cashew and pineapple macadamia to cheese herb, challah and scones.

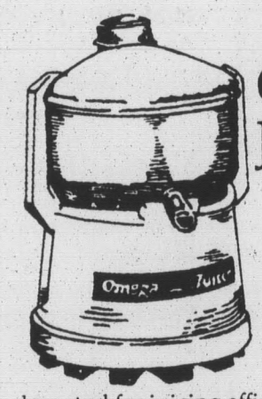

Chef Hugo Molina from the Parkway Grill will lead a cooking workshop for all ages. Top floral designer Jim Longest of Jacob Maarse will demonstrate how to make planted baskets with cut flowers and live blooming plants. The arrangements will then be offered for sale—at very reasonable prices. Games for the children and music for all will underscore the festive nature of the event.

wants it to be," adding that he is not sure if our General Plan has been approved. Our Housing Element may be what the city wants it to be, but it clearly is not what the state wants it to be.

More than 20 years ago, the California Legislature mandated that all cities in the state must have a General Plan by January of 1994. Sierra Madre's General Plan was prepared with citizen participation, as required by law, approved by the people, the city council and the state, at that time. Under state law, all General Plans must contain seven basic elements, one of them a Housing Element. Our Plan and its Housing Element were legally valid until 1984. Then the Legislature enacted a law stipulating that every city must review its Housing Element and submit a Population and Housing Report to the state every five years, primarily to determine compliance with the legal requirements for the use of CRA funds and federal Block Grant funds. The first Population and Housing report was due on July 1, 1984. The City of Sierra Madre did not file that report.

The California Code states that the Housing Element must be reviewed by the planning commission. If the planning commission is not able to carry out that review, the city council has the authority to designate an adjunct committee to the planning commission to complete the task. The second Population and Housing Report was due on July 1, 1989. An Ad Hoc Committee was appointed in early 1989 to review the Housing Element and prepare the report. Again, a Population and Housing Report was not submitted to the state. Finally, the city having carried on for more than eight years without a valid Housing Element, a report was submitted in the summer of 1992. In late 1992, the State Attorney General advised the city that our Housing Element did not meet the criteria required by state law, and we no longer were eligible to receive CRA funds. There is little doubt that if the state had not fallen into its own economic swamp, it would have continued to overlook our lack of compliance with the law, but there is also little doubt that the loss of CRA funds has played a significant role in our own fiscal crisis.

The third Population and Housing Report is due this year, 1994. The city needs volunteers to serve on the committee to review the Housing Element. Based on the views verbalized by many people in this community regarding how they would like to see Sierra Madre developed, there should be no lack of volunteers to serve on that committee. This is an opportunity to become actively involved in the planning for our city and its future, and to help bring Sierra Madre back into compliance with the law, restoring our Housing Element and our General Plan to the legal status that protects all of us.

Upset about canyon hauling disagreement

I was very embarrassed, hurt and angry as I listened to the news coverage of Sierra Madre; (once again), when it was apparent that the relentless workers, truckers and Search and Rescuers of the Henderson tragedy had to postpone their working hours to appease Sierra Madre. I was ashamed of the statements in the media, and of being associated with those thoughtless enough to complain. "There was too much noise—too much traffic," they said, so the search would only be from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. We all knew it would be temporary—that it must be done...

This is the town that is known for so many faiths, so many churches. This is the town that at Christmas, all faiths join together to complete the Candlelight Walk. This is the town that has fun and laughs together on July 4. Yet, this is the town that holds (hopefully) the few that are too into themselves in this self-fulfilling world to show some kindness, some empathy, a little compassion for some of our "family."

Although I live on Grove Street and was one that was probably most aware of the trucks and their trips, every one that passed by was a reminder to me to say a prayer for the Henderson family, and brought me closer to them and their tragedy.

It is so hard for me to understand how some of "Sierra Madre's family" could be so cold, so callous, so selfish to other hurting, grieving family members.

I understood, and was hoping that most others would also, that the added traffic, the additional noise and other such things are all part of helping our friends, our neighbors. Those close to the Hendersons had to be able to get answers, and know what seemed to be the inevitable. They needed to be able to have some closure, and deal with the next phase of grieving.

This large family called Sierra Madre has weathered catastrophe after catastrophe—together, as one. That's how we've made it through and grown, and even maybe gotten to know a few more of each other. The earthquakes, the fire, the threat of floods, and now this very unfortunate, untimely taking of the Hendersons—aren't we supposed to try and make something positive out of these things instead of negative?

Somehow, in the big picture of these things, complaints of this nature—noise, traffic—seem so petty. It's too bad that the ones making the most unbearable noise (the complainers) could not see the big picture.

If it was one of their own personal family, how would they feel each night since Mar. 6 as they lay their head on their pillow—knowing that their loved one was out there...alone...I am very relieved to find out in the last days that those not in favor of the 24-hour "work-vigil" were but a small percentage of our precious, caring hometown.

To the Henderson loved ones—I apologize for those that were not able to understand or know your grief. Mine and my family's hearts go out to you, and the deepest of sympathy is extended. You will stay in my family's thoughts and prayers for many a day to come.

Inquiry from Canada

Two years ago, I lost my wife suddenly to a stroke. We had been happily married for 25 years, and it was a huge blow. Yet out of my loss and loneliness has come something I could never have guessed at before, a sensing that at the level of spirit, or being, we are still one. More than that, I feel the guidance and protection of that departed being as I continue on with my life.

Our society does not give a lot of weight to such perceptions, and at times I have wondered if I am out of step in a serious way! But another part of me thinks that the turbulent days in which we live may bring an increasing awareness of the importance of "angels" in our lives.

I am a retired BC weekly newspaper editor. I am writing to some weekly papers here and there on the continent to ask if any of your readers have had experiences in this area that they would be willing to share with me?

Asking for answers

Councilman Adams and Councilwoman MacGillivray try to describe what the city is doing now to straighten out our fiscal mess. What they avoid talking about is how the mess happened to begin with. As incumbents, they, together with Mr. Buchan, who is running on his record as a former councilman, owe the citizens of this city an explanation of what they were doing when the numerous irregularities and violations of law took place.

Their avoidance of this issue and their totally unacceptable explanations for the Western Waste contract call into question the depth of their understanding and commitment to Sierra Madre's financial well-being. It is difficult to understand how a competition with closed secret bids could be described as a situation in which the low bidder is assumed to be planning to raise prices after the first year. Wouldn't it have made more sense to award the contract to the lowest bidder?

We need more than generalized references to evaluating "innovative means of raising money and saving revenue" and the hope that, because of the economic recovery, the state will stop taking so much of our local property tax revenue. Sierra Madre cannot rely, as Councilman Adams has urged us to do, on the recovery of the California economy to bail us out.

Looking for tokens

I am a lover of his-to-ry, and I have a somewhat unusual hobby. I collect old tokens used by stores, barber shops, pool halls, bakeries, saloons, forts, and other businesses years ago. The tokens were "good for" five cents, 10 cents, 12½ cents or such in trade or merchandise, or "good for" a loaf of bread, one drink, one shave, one ride, or whatever. They were usually made of metal, and while having the general appearance of a coin, they were made in all shapes and sizes.

I am hoping that if you have a "Letter to the Editor" section or such in your paper that you might mention my search. I know that this request is relatively unimportant, but as our elderly pass away and the younger members of the family inherit their possessions, tokens and other items are considered junk, and thrown out. I do get a great deal of enjoyment from my hobby, and I do believe that these concrete reminders of our great heritage are worth preserving.

I have reason to believe that some of these tokens were used in your area, and I would be most interested in obtaining some of them for my collection.

I would like to hear from anyone having one or more of these tokens, or from anyone that might be able to help me. Any help that you can give me of any kind would be greatly appreciated. My address is: Travis Roberts, Box 1168, Bellaire, Texas 77402.

Thank you kindly in advance, and best wishes.

Fiddlers, adults, kids enjoy camaraderie at Mary's Store

PRINCIPALS ENJOY OPEN HOUSE — Among those enjoying a cup of coffee and cookies at one of the earlier open houses at Mary's Store at 561 Woodland Drive in Sierra Madre are owner John Sanford, Denise Adams, Jeanne Keating and Randy Leatherman. The newly reopened store, closed two years ago when Mary Perkins retired, is the popular "hangout" for kids and adults alike.

MMM, ICE CREAM — The always popular ice cream bar is enjoyed by David Rogoff, one of the kids who frequent Mary's Store in the canyon.

WHO CAN RESIST KIDS — Some of the children who are making Mary's Store part of their after-school activities are Allison Southwell, Sophia D'Auria and Caitlin Malone.

Voters to elect three from field of 11 Arcadia City Council candidates

The 26,118 registered voters will have an opportunity to elect a new Arcadia City Council majority when they go to the polls on Tuesday, Apr. 12. Among the 11 candidates vying for three open seats on the five-man council, are two incumbents, Joe Ciraulo and George Fasching, and two people, who between them, have run for office 13 times, Charles Chivetta and Johanna Hofer.

Another candidate, Mary Young, served two terms on the council and was mayor in 1986-87 and again in 1990-91. Per city charter regulations, she stepped aside after eight years and is now eligible to seek reelection.

The other candidates are newcomers to Arcadia's political scene: Celia Kalm, Karen Towner, Sheng Chang, Barbara Kuhn, Ruth Gilb and Dave Sheridan.

Two candidates have been named Arcadia Citizen of the Year, Young and Gilb.

Nine candidates recently filed reports of total campaign income and expenses through Mar. 26. Chivetta and Hofer indicated that they will not receive or spend in excess of $1000, which does not include the campaign statement in the Voter Information Pamphlet.

Chang, the first Chinese to run for public office in Arcadia, leads other candidates in the amount of money collected, $34,172, and in the amount spent, $24,911.27. Following him are Gilb, with $21,670.95 collected and $10,709.89 spent; Ciraulo, $20,147.20 received, with an expenditure of $18,437.43; Kalm, $16,794 received and $14,600 spent; Fasching, $12,454 collected, with an expenditure of $10,820.50; Young, $6786.99 received and $3255.71 spent; Kuhn, $4510.45 collected and $2351.27 spent; Towner, $3872 received and $1806 spent; and Sheridan, $1845.96 collected and $1481.96 spent.

Four of the candidates, Fasching, Gilb, Sheridan and Chang, paid extra to have their statement in the Voter Information Pamphlet translated into Chinese, and Sheridan had his printed in Spanish as well.

Polls will open at 25 precincts throughout Arcadia at 7 a.m.

Candidates respond to questionnaire

Statements regarding their candidacy, biographical and other information about the 11 candidates seeking election to the Arcadia City Council can be found on pages 26 and 27 in this week's edition of The Sierra Madre News.

Candidates responded to a questionnaire asking their reason for seeking a council seat, their reactions to proposed Downtown Revitalization, their perception of the major issues facing Arcadia today, what they would look for in a new city manager and their primary goal if elected to the council.

AHS drama students to present 'Elizabethan Nights of Feasting'

Arcadia High School's drama department will present its annual "Elizabethan Nights of Feasting and Revelry," opening on Wednesday, Apr. 12, and playing through Apr. 16 in the Little Theatre on the high school campus. Performances on Apr. 13 and 14 will include scenes from Shakespeare plays and music, tumbling and juggling. These performances will begin at 7:30 p.m.; ticket price is $5 at the door.

On Apr. 15-16, there will be an Elizabethan feast, with a menu featuring turkey legs, corn on the cob, broasted potatoes, quiches, salad and spiced cakes. A Renaissance faire will precede the feasts both nights, and the troupe's performance of Shakespeare with music and dancing will round out the evenings. Tickets for the feast nights are $15 and must be purchased in advance from a cast member or by calling 446-0131 beginning Monday, Apr. 11.

Members of the cast have been making their own Elizabethan costumes in preparation of the event as well as practicing madrigals, memorizing Shakespeare and learning some period dances, explained Dr. Nancy Beagle, drama director.

ELIZABETHAN NIGHTS — Getting ready for Arcadia High School's presentation of "Elizabethan Nights of Feasting and Revelry" are, front, Cristina Contreras and Nina Reynolds; and back, Fiona Williams, Brian Andersen, Sejal Patel, Brian Fintland, Craig Clements and Sarah Eltantawi.

Golden Egg, coloring contests held in conjunction with Easter Egg Hunt

Nicholas Fry, Megan Martin and Shawn Zboril found the Golden Egg in their respective age divisions in the annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Arcadia Recreation Department at Arcadia County Park on Saturday morning.

Winners of the coloring contest in the 1 to 4-year-old division were Vivian Chan, Mark Kirkendall and Brittany Chenelia.

In the 5 to 8-year-old division, winners were Kimberly Kirkendall, Justin Roberts and Nicole Souquette, while Krystle Lopez, Jason Michaelson and Lori Sahyouni won in the 9 to 12-year-old group.

Sheng Chang

Because he feels that "politicians today are out of touch with the needs and concerns of their constituents," Sheng Chang believes it is time to elect a person like him "who is not a professional politician and who is a physician and small businessman."

He supports "revitalizing our downtown business district because it will create jobs and boost revenues for our city. Also, it will attract shoppers from other cities. I want to make sure our tax dollars are spent wisely on this project. It is essential our plan for Downtown Revitalization be made in consultation with downtown business owners and city residents. We must have a plan that has broad-based support so it will be successful."

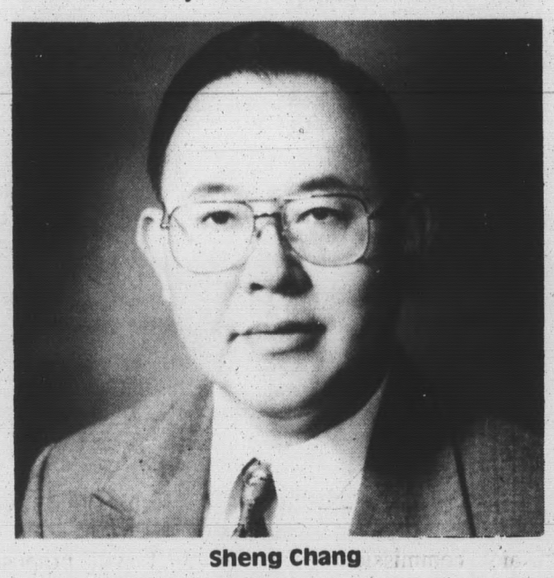

Dr. Chang said that the major issue facing Arcadia today is the continuing decline in city revenues. "This situation makes it more and more difficult to adequately fund vital city services such as police and fire. If I am elected to the city council, I will go over our city budget with a fine tooth comb to cut out waste and mismanagement. I will donate my city council salary to the police department for crime prevention programs and I will never travel to conferences and conventions at taxpayer expense."

For a new city manager, Chang would look for a person "who has previous experience working in a city of our size with a budget similar to Arcadia's budget. I also think our council should try to find someone who currently works for our city because that person is already familiar with our city's practices and policies."

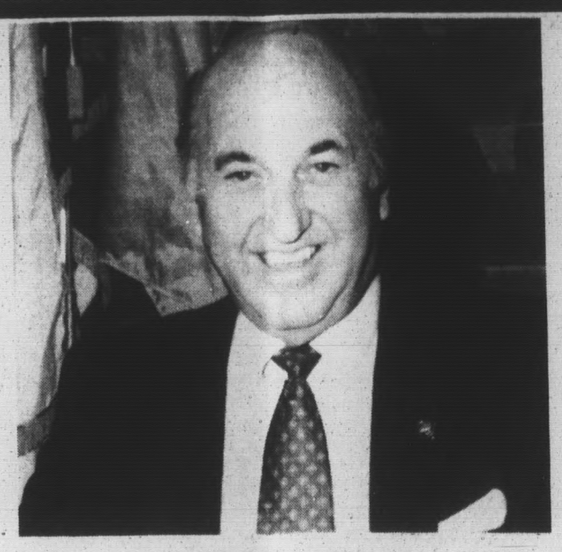

If elected, this candidate states that his "primary goal is to stop our city council's fiscal irresponsibility. We must not be giving away millions of tax dollars to big department stores like Nordstrom in these tough times. I want our city to spend its money wisely by funding programs that benefit our city's residents. I will work to find ways to increase city revenues without raising taxes. We must restore fiscal integrity to our city council."

Born in the Philippines, Chang, 52, and his wife, Min Mey, moved to Arcadia 15 years ago. They have three sons, two in college and the youngest is a student at Foothills Junior High School.

A self-employed physician, he earned an M.D. at the National Taiwan University Medical School and a Ph.D. from the University of Alabama in Birmingham. He is a member of the Arcadia Educational Foundation, Arcadia Festival of Bands, Arcadia Rotary Club, and was founding president of the Arcadia Chinese Association. He also served on the Senior Citizen Commission.

Sheng Chang

George Fasching

George Fasching

Seeking his second term on the Arcadia city council is 64-year-old George Fasching.

When asked why he is seeking reelection, Fasching wrote, "First of all, I like the job. I am proud of my record of accomplishments during my first four years on the council. With that experience, I am better qualified to serve the citizens of Arcadia during the next four years."

Regarding Downtown Revitalization, he said that it is "long overdue and will be the stimulus for new city revenue."

The major issues facing Arcadia, according to this candidate, is "planning for the future, protecting our quality of life and representing our interests in an ever-changing state and federal climate."

If reelected, Fasching would "continue serving the residents of our city with the same commitment of time and dedication I have shown the last four years."

An Arcadia resident for 27 years, Fasching is the owner of a car wash which bears his name. Previous work experience includes sales manager, Signal Oil and Gas Corp.

In the questionnaire provided to each candidate, Fasching indicated that he has "a lot" of community involvement and has received "many" honors, but he failed to give any specifics.

Fasching and his wife, Geri, have three children.

Joseph Ciraulo

"We have accomplished many good things in the past four years; reduced budget by approximately $1 million dollars while still maintaining critical services, and continued to practice Arcadia's fiscal conservative approach in governing our city," said Joseph Ciraulo, who said that he would like to be reelected for a second 4-year term on the Arcadia city council "to continue this and see new projects to completion."

He said that his record of voting for the development of a commercial revitalization program for Downtown Arcadia speaks for itself. "This revitalization is part of a plan regarding concerns for necessary future income for the city."

When asked about the major issue facing the city of Arcadia today, Ciraulo responded, "Arcadia is facing many challenges that concern its future and each issue is seen in a different light by different citizens. I would be glad to address each concern on a one-to-one basis."

In seeking a replacement for the Arcadia City Manager, "I would work with the new council closely, and as a team, develop guidelines incorporating their ideas. The new city manager should be hired with the unanimous vote of the council as was done in the past," said Ciraulo.

If reelected, this candidate "would like to continue the projects which have been developed during the past four years and maintain fiscal conservatism—continue to balance the budget—resolve financial shortfalls by increasing revenues—maintain at high levels city services."

A resident of Arcadia for 32 years, Ciraulo, 57, was born in Pennsylvania. He earned B.S. and M.B.A. degrees from UCLA and currently is president/owner of a medical services company. He has 30 years of experience with Fortune 500 companies, including being director of personnel and industrial relations for Vons Grocery Company and Hughes Markets, vice president of personnel and labor relations for Consolidated Foods Corporation, and corporate director of human resources and administration with Petersen Publishing Company.

Currently serving as mayor, he is a former member of the Arcadia Personnel Commission and past president of the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce, former board member of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses, and founding chairman of the Arcadia Chapter of the American Heart Association. He also is a member of the Arcadia Lions Club and Arcadia B.P.O.E. Lodge 2025.

He and his wife, Carole, have three grown children.

Joseph Ciraulo

Ruth Gilb

Ruth Gilb is seeking her first term on the Arcadia City Council because "I have a great love for our city and have devoted much of my life to the various volunteer groups which have made it what it is. During the last few years, the council has shown a lack of stability regarding policy direction and money matters. Arcadia's reputation as a model of good government has been severely tarnished. I want to re-establish our city's reputation as being well run, progressive and using a cautious, conservative approach to the use of taxpayers' money."

"It is too costly and won't solve the problem," is Gilb's response to the Downtown Revitalization project. "More than $5 million to recreate this two-block stretch of Huntington Drive as a pedestrian-oriented retail complex with seven traffic signals is unrealistic. The plans to increase the population density adjacent to this area to support the proposed retail is not desirable for our city. Relocating successful, existing pedestrian-oriented retail stores to this area would create problems in other areas of Arcadia. The city's economic study shows that even if successful, we would see no return on the investment for almost 20 years."

Deficit spending is the major issue facing Arcadia, according to this 67-year-old candidate, who added, "Allowing the city to 'live beyond its means' and then spending from reserves to make up the difference," is a major issue. "If elected, I would work with the other councilmembers to bring costs into line with revenues with the least possible impact of the citizens."

The new city manager should be "a person with strong administrative and communication skills with a proven record of managing a city of our size and budget, personable and adept at interfacing positively with the council and citizens. This person must be able to command the respect of the city staff members."

If elected, Gilb's primary goal while serving on the council would be to "restore stability and good management practices to the city" and "encourage respect for all councilmembers and their viewpoints."

Named Arcadia Citizen of the Year in 1984, Gilb has served as president of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association, board member of the Arcadia Historical Society, American Heart Association, Methodist Hospital Foundation, Santa Teresita Foundation, Los Angeles County Children's Services Commission and is a charter member of Alpha Auxiliary of Methodist Hospital as well as a life member of Assistance League of Pasadena. She currently serves as president of the Arcadia Welfare and Thrift Shop board and is a past president of Altrusa International of Arcadia. She is a past member of the Sister City Commission.

Born in Montana, she and her husband, Charles, moved to Arcadia with their three children in 1960. Now retired, she owned and operated a clothing shop in Arcadia.

Ruth Gilb

Johanna Hofer

Johanna Hofer

A five-time candidate for Arcadia City Council, Johanna Hofer is once again seeking election because "it is quite crystal clear that active concerned citizens must be elected to this office in order to correct the flagrant abuse by those now in office."

This 71-year-old candidate said that Downtown Revitalization "is a lot of hum bug! I believe this money could be used to install sidewalks in the southern part of the city where the new Albertson's Market and Restaurant will be built. This would certainly come under the classification of revitalization, but more importantly, it would be a public safety measure."

The major issue facing Arcadia involves earthquake preparedness, according to Hofer. "I believe seismic studies are imperative—for if we are not ready for the next 'big one,' we might find our city in shambles, many people dead or injured, and we would probably quickly use up our reserves."

If elected, Hofer wrote that she would "serve with the highest degree of integrity, honesty and truthfulness—giving public safety and fiscal responsibility equal footing."

In looking for a new city manager, she would seek "an experienced city manager who has worked with other city councils and has made great progress in their cities exercising fiscal responsibility as well as good political and moral responsibilities. It should be someone who perhaps has earned special awards statewide or nationally for his or her work.

Born in Vienna, Austria, Hofer moved to Arcadia 32 years ago. She and her husband, Edward, have two grown children. For 15 years the candidate worked for the city of Los Angeles in the Department of Public Works and also in the Department of Public Utilities as secretary and deputy city clerk. She is a former PTA vice president and recreation chairman at Hugo Reid Elementary School.

Barbara Kuhn

Because she would like to "return stability to Arcadia city government through strong directive leadership from the city council," Barbara Kuhn is a first-time candidate for a seat on the council. "I am a fiscal conservative and would like to balance our budget. I also want to balance our city council with representation for everyone," explained this candidate.

On Downtown Revitalization, she said that it would improve the image of the city; however, "economic revitalization of Arcadia is not limited to two blocks of Huntington Drive and we do need to consider the total picture. I am concerned with the price tag and what will really be accomplished," continued Kuhn.

"Balancing our budget without draining our reserves," is the major issue facing Arcadia today. Kuhn would "trim where possible, without sacrificing services, and focus on revenue producing efforts" to help solve the problem.

"A person with strong experience in managing city government, but also one with people skills, who is capable of following the direction of the city council and who can relate to and understand our community" are the qualifications Kuhn would be looking for as the council seeks a new city manager. She continued, "Our current problem was created by decisions made by our current council resulting in the unnecessary expenditure of tax dollars, low staff morale, and the loss of two employees in whom the city had invested over 20 years each. That is a lot of waste for basically political reasons."

The major issue facing Arcadia is "balancing our budget without draining our reserves." Trim where possible, without sacrificing services and focus on revenue-producing efforts are ways Kuhn would deal with the issue.

A 30-year resident of Arcadia, this 56-year-old candidate was born in Tennessee. She and her husband, Jim, have two grown daughters and three grandchildren.

Active in the real estate industry for over 20 years, she is currently chief financial officer of a local architectural firm. She is a former executive secretary to the board of trustees at California Institute of Technology.

Her community involvement includes past chairman and member of the founding board of the Arcadia Branch of the American Heart Association, member of the Ambassador committee and intercultural committee of the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce, member of the budget advisory committee for the Coalition for Education, past president of the Arcadia-Monrovia Soroptimist, member of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses, Arcadia Republican Women's Club and Rotary Associates.

Barbara Kuhn

Celia Kalm

Because she is concerned about the future of the city and because she is committed to making a positive contribution to the way that it is managed in the future, Celia Kalm is making her first bid for a seat on the Arcadia City Council.

Regarding Downtown Revitalization, Kalm said that it is "just one of the city's overall development needs. You only have to drive through Duarte Road and Live Oak Avenue to see that many business sections of the city are no longer as competitive as they used to be."

Kalm added, "The city council, acting as the Community Redevelopment Agency, has the responsibility for assuring that the city has an overall development plan that will bring all commercial and industrial areas up to a new standard for the 21st century."

The main issue facing the city of Arcadia today is "Maintaining a high quality of life without endangering the city's financial condition," said this 55-year-old candidate.

"If elected, I would take the long-term steps necessary to attract additional development to the city of Arcadia so that property tax revenue and sales tax revenue—the two major components of the city's income stream—will continue to grow in future years to fund the community's need for essential services," Kalm added.

Her primary goal as a member of the council would be "to achieve unity in the decision-making process so that the city can move forward in a dynamic fashion—without bickering or back-biting—to meet the needs of its citizens."

In a search for a new manager, Kalm would look for someone with experience in the areas of planning and land use, finance and budgeting, economic development, community and intergovernmental relations, staff supervision and personnel administration. "The kind of person we should be looking for is one who has had a stable job history in a comparable community, who has demonstrated innovative ideas for managing budgets, who is attentive to details without missing the big picture, sensitive to cultural diversity and proactive in presenting advantages/disadvantages of various options."

A 29-year resident of Arcadia, this candidate is married to Arne, and she has three adult stepchildren. She currently is president of Classico Manufacturing Company.

Her community involvement includes serving for seven years on the Arcadia Personnel Board, being a member of the board of trustees for the Los Angeles County Arboretum, members of Arcadia Rotary Club and Altrusa International of Arcadia, as well as former board member of Assistance League of Pasadena and Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association.

Celia Kalm

Mary Young

Mary Young

She has served twice as Mayor of Arcadia during an eight-year tenure on the Arcadia City Council, and now Mary Young seeks election again, after stepping aside for two years, per City Charter regulations. The owner of a small interior decorating business, she wants to return to the council because "past experience in the community, governmental area, and work experience make me feel I have something to contribute. A love of Arcadia gives me the desire to keep Arcadia as a comfortable, safe, progressive, Community of Homes—a desirable place to live. My life is so organized that I have the time to give to the job."

Regarding proposed plans for Downtown Revitalization, Young wrote, "I cannot identify that the initial steps are the correct steps. Granted, revitalization will help the area, but the project must be planned as the correct one for our Community of Homes."

She considers the revitalization project as one of the major issues facing Arcadia, but also identifies the use of the city's reserve funds and the need to maintain a "safe, secure, crime-free city for superb suburban living."

If elected, her primary goal would be to "work to maintain Arcadia as a Community of Homes, but be creative and progressive in laying the ground work for the twenty-first century—nopefully doing as well as all of the city fathers who preceded 1994."

Regarding selection of a new city manager, Young said, "This person must have a sound basis in public administration, have had some good experience, be practical, honest and have a good understanding of Arcadia's finances and desires."

Born in Illinois, Young has lived in Arcadia for 43 years. She received a B.A. from Ohio Wesleyan University.

The recipient of the Arcadia Citizen of the Year honor in 1991, she was also recognized that year as Legislative Woman of the Year. Young is past president of the San Gabriel Valley Association of Cities, former member of the Facilities Task Force for Arcadia Unified School District and was an official delegate to the White House Conference on Aging. This year she serves as president of the Foothill Creative Arts Group, member of the national advisory committee for the Claremont School of Theology and member of the board of directors of Methodist Hospital Foundation. A life member of Methodist Hospital Auxiliary, she is past president of Assistance League of Arcadia and a member of Arcadia-Monrovia Soroptimist International.

This candidate and her husband, Richard, have three grown children and five grandchildren.

David Sheridan

A 66-year-old retired banker, David Sheridan is tired of voting against things and decided to run for city council hoping voters will find him as someone to be for.

He regards the proposed Downtown Revitalization as a "most idiotic city expenditure at this time of little income flow."

Regarding the major issue facing the city of Arcadia today, Sheridan wrote, "lack of income, and still spending monies not coming in."

To help solve this problem, Sheridan wrote, "Hire Monrovia and Duarte's innovators; kick all of us long-time residents out and get home purchasers in so my property taxes go from $750 to $5000. He pointed out that oldtimers in the city complain about the big homes being built in the city, but that these property owners "bring in 10-20 times the tax dollar."

If elected, his primary goal would be to "stop cutting support personnel's salaries so they can live in this city and feel its daily and long term problems."

A new city manager should be experienced, innovative and new thinking, said Sheridan, who added, "Forget this 'Arcadia for Arcadians,' because since I've been in this area, the only progress was eliminating the chicken ranches; Santa Anita was already here."

This candidate was born in Idaho and moved to Temple City 44 years ago. He has lived in Arcadia for 31 years. He earned a B.S. in business administration at the University of Southern California. He is a former U.S. Marine who worked with the Los Angeles Federal Saving Bank, retiring after 30 years.

He has served on L.A. Mayor Yorty's Adult Committee with Youth, an anti-narcotics program, and was a member of the L.A. Downtown Police Boosters.

David Sheridan

Karen Towner

Karen Towner wants to capitalize on her experience of serving as a port commissioner for the city of Ventura and arts commissioner for the city of Novato in her quest for a seat on the Arcadia City Council.

Why is she seeking election? Towner wrote, "I believe that the next few years will present challenges to our community, economically, socially and politically, the answers to which will reach far into the future and dramatically affect Arcadia's ability to preserve the quality of life that brought most residents to our community. People who believe in my business sense, my willingness to listen with no hidden agenda and my ability to be a problem-solver have encouraged me to run for the council, with the belief that I can make a difference for all Arcadians."

As a partner in Arcadia Coffee Brewing Company on South First Avenue, Towner "strongly favors the revitalization of the downtown area" as well as "all economic centers and businesses of Arcadia." This candidate added, "To maintain the level and quality of services to which we are accustomed will require a tax base that provides the necessary tax revenues. I prefer these revenues to be generated from businesses rather than from homeowners. The Downtown Revitalization is a good first step in this direction and should be pursued since it does not require the expenditure of any general operating fund revenues."

Towner feels that the major issue facing the city is its economic future and whether or not Arcadia will have the courage to look forward to the future with hope and confidence. "If elected, I will propose the creation of the Arcadia Economic Development Council with membership representing the city, Santa Anita, the Chamber of Commerce, realtors and other vital segments of the business community working together to develop a strategic business development plan which would benefit Arcadia well into the 21st century."

This 54-year-old candidate also proposes the formation of the Arcadia Cultural Relations Commission to address the social needs of our changing demographics and to be available and responsive to all Arcadians.

To fill the position of Arcadia City Manager, Towner would look for a person who has "people-centered management style, excellent communication skills, a strong record for sound fiscal management and the ability to hold department heads accountable for providing 'user-friendly' service to residents."

Towner has been a resident of Arcadia for a total of eight years, moving back to the city most recently when her husband, Terry, was named superintendent of the Arcadia Unified School District. They have two grown sons.

This political challenger is a member of the Arcadia Republican Women's Club, Rotary Partners, retail and legislative committees for the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce, Arcadia Business Association and Church of the Good Shepherd. In addition, she is first vice president of Arcadia Community Coordinating Council, pageant chairman for the Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association and board member of the Arcadia Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Karen Towner

Charles Chivetta

Charles "Chuck" Chivetta Sr., has been a candidate in eight of the last nine city council elections. "I am running for city council because I have always felt there should be new faces and ideals to be brought before Arcadians to meet the challenges of our community as we approach the 21st century."

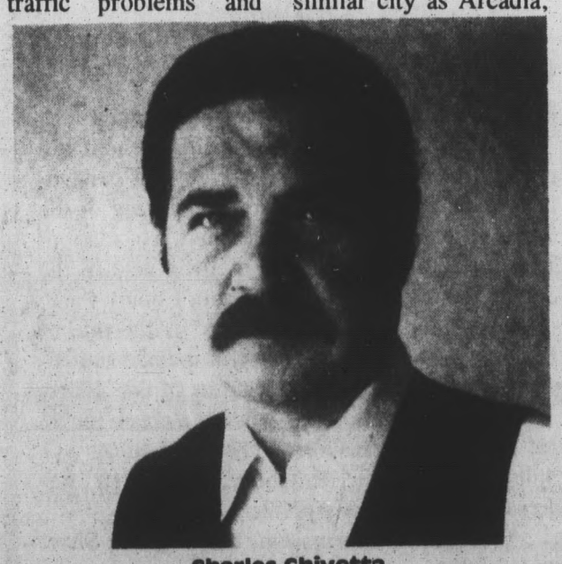

"Oh, hum!" are words used by this candidate to describe the way he feels about Downtown Revitalization. "We have had numerous reports on downtown during the past two decades and none have worked. Perhaps this one will work. But, will it with opposition from property owners about a special assessment, a major street (Huntington Dr.) that should not be chocked down to create traffic problems and further loss of business?" wrote the candidate whose business is located in the redevelopment area.

"Loss of revenues and decaying properties" are listed by Chivetta as the major issues facing Arcadia today. "Look up and down Arcadia's commercial and manufacturing areas and all you see are absentee owners who are waiting for real property to become what it was in the '80s, so they can sell and get out. They are not interested in fixing their buildings. We need gutsy programs to overcome these problems, and as a councilperson, I will strive for the same," wrote this candidate.

A new city manager would be someone who "has experience as a city manager with a similar city as Arcadia, a team player and one who has been lauded for his vision and dedication to what Arcadians desire for their community in the next decade." He added, "What was wrong with George Watts?"

If elected, "I will attempt to get people involved at all levels. The city has many experienced, retired persons who are just waiting to be asked for their support and knowledge. You can't build a community without them. They care about the quality of life, and we need a collaborative effort for the future benefit of Arcadia and Arcadians."

Born in Illinois, this candidate has lived in Arcadia for 30 years. His two sons graduated from Arcadia High School. Chivetta, who is the owner of an urban planning consulting firm, earned a B.S. and M.S. in urban planning and business administration from the University of Southern California. For over 30 years, he worked as a department head of various governmental agencies in local California cities. He is past president of the Arcadia Business Association, is a past board member of the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association.

Judge hears case of candidate sign theft

Three teenagers who were allegedly involved in the theft of a sign promoting an Arcadia City Council candidate appeared in Pasadena Municipal Court on Tuesday.

The teenagers are Robert Fasching, son of City Councilman George Fasching, who is also a candidate, Michael Clark and Anthony Comaianni, all Arcadia residents. The younger Fasching pointed out that about 20 percent of his father's signs are missing.

The judge offered three options to Sheng Chang, the candidate whose sign was taken from a residence in the 400 block of Cortez: press charges, drop the case, or hold the case for six months, and if the three young men are involved in similar situations, formally charge them.

Chang chose the third alternative, but expressed concern that so many of his signs were missing. The judge reminded him that the hearing was about only one sign.

The young men apologized to the Changs and agreed that they had used poor judgment. Clark sent the Changs a letter of apology.

Program on Pasadena YMCA

Al Ferreira will present a slide program about the Pasadena YMCA at the Monday, Apr. 11 meeting of the Arcadia Community Coordinating Council. The noon luncheon meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn in Monrovia.

Ferreira's interest in the YMCA began at the age of 15, and he has worked in every facet of the YMCA program. He helped build the Camp Bluff Lake program, was named camp director in 1989 and is currently executive director of the branch.

Luncheon reservations at $8.50 per person may be made by calling 914-5189.

camellia lecture, demo

Marilee Grey, president of the Southern California Camellia Society, will discuss fertilizing camellias for summer growth, pruning throughout the summer, propagation by cuttings and the versatility of the camellia in landscaping on Saturday, Apr. 9, at 1 p.m., in the Demonstration Home Gardens at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum.

Fire station No. 2 dedication, Apr. 8

A dedication ceremony for the new Arcadia fire station No. 2, located at 630 S. Baldwin Ave., will take place on Friday, Apr. 8, at 2 p.m. The Arcadia City Council invites the public to witness the dedication and tour the fire station that will accommodate the needs of the community for the next 40-50 years.

The new station will house a pumper/ladder truck, a paramedic ambulance, air/light unit and a reserve engine. In addition, the station is designed to meet the needs of both male and female firefighters and house the Fire Prevention/ Inspection Division.

Call Chief Gerald Gardner at 574-5105 for more information.

Podiatry screening

Dr. Jo Ann Ross will administer a test that measures the degree of blood circulation through the legs and feet at the Arcadia Community Center on Friday, Apr. 15, 1:30-4:30 p.m. A printout of the results will be given to each client.

Make reservations for this free podiatry screening offered to those people 50 years of age and older by calling 574-5130.

Nature photographer to give Las Vols program

Roy Murphy, a noted nature photographer, will present a slide talk on the four seasons in the San Gabriel mountains when Las Voluntarias y Los Ayudantes meets at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum on Monday, Apr. 11, 10 a.m.

Murphy began his career as a commercial artist, progressing from art college in Toronto, through a drafting job in an aircraft plant during World War II, and into various art capacities, including freelance work. Gradually, his interest in photography took over, and eventually he narrowed his focus to nature pictures.

The Las Vols meeting is open to the public; however, normal Arboretum entrance fees will be in effect for non-members.

Answers to heart disease questions

What is the difference between a heart attack and a stroke? Who is at risk for heart disease? Learn the answers to these questions and learn what to do if someone is having a heart attack and what can be done to reduce the risk of heart disease at a program to be presented by Senior Alliance on Tuesday, Apr. 12, 1 p.m. at the Arcadia Community Center.

Call 574-5130 to make reservations for this program.

Closing Medicare gaps

A program specialist from the nonprofit consumer advocacy organization, HICAP, will discuss how to close the Medicare coverage gaps and reduce out-of-the-pocket costs, either by purchasing Medicare Supplemental Insurance or by joining a Health Maintenance Organization, on Monday, Apr. 11, 11-12:30 p.m., at the Arcadia Community Center.

Reservations are required for this free presentation, and may be made by calling 574-5130.

Preserving Your Assets

James Helms, Jr., attorney with the firm of Helms, Hanrahan & Meyers, will discuss "Preserving Your Assets," on Tuesday, Apr. 12. The 10 a.m. program will be in Methodist Hospital's auditorium, and at 7 p.m. the presentation will be in Lewis Hall on the hospital campus.

Helms will discuss Durable Power of Attorney for finances and healthcare, living wills and physician directives, living trust, MediCal planning and appreciated assets, in this program cosponsored by the Methodist Hospital Foundation and Senior Services.

Make required reservations by calling 574-3733.

UPCOMING HAPPENINGS

Arboretum iris show

Tall-bearded, small-bearded and aril-bred irises will be displayed by the Southern California Iris Society at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum on Apr. 9-10. Saturday hours are 1-4:30 p.m., and on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Pacific Coast natives that have colors ranging from cream to blue-violet and Siberian iris that flower throughout the summer will also be featured.

In addition, over 50 displays of iris arrangements will be exhibited, and members will be available to answer cultural questions.

Admission to the show is included with Arboretum entrance fees.

Sexual harassment

Dr. Fay Weber, the Los Angeles District director of the American Association of University Women, will speak on the problem of sexual harassment in the school system when the Arcadia branch of the American Association of University Women meets on Monday, Apr. 11, 7:30 p.m., in Jordan Hall at the Church of the Good Shepherd in Arcadia.

Weber will define sexual harassment and offer ways to deal with it.

Ruth Lubin, who recently won the Ms. Senior California title, will also be a part of the AAUW program. A video of her interview at the state competition trials will be shown. Lubin will represent California in national competition in Reno next month.

For more information about the AAUW program, call Madeline West at 574-0429.

AEF joins Quest campaign

The Arcadia Lions Club and the Arcadia Educational Foundation are joining forces in support of the second annual Country-Western dance to be held on Saturday, Apr. 16, 6:30 p.m., in the former National Guard Armory in Arcadia.

Proceeds will go toward Lions-Quest, a program in Arcadia schools which encourages a healthy, drug-free approach to life, builds self esteem through positive support and provides the life-skills that are necessary for growth in today's society.

Professional dance instruction will be available, and music will be presented by Geary Hanley.

General admission is $5 per person with reserved tables for 10 at $70.

Call (800) 773-3235 for information and reservations.

Blood pressure screening

Free blood pressure screening will be offered by Arcadia Senior Citizen Services on Friday, Apr. 8, 9:30-11 a.m. at the Arcadia Community Center.

Make reservations by calling 574-5130.

The Arcadia Chapter of the American Red Cross will offer a free blood pressure clinic on Friday, Apr. 8, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., at 365 Campus Dr. in Arcadia.

Women's Aglow Fellowship

Arcadia Women's Aglow Fellowship will gather for breakfast at Coco's restaurant, 1150 W. Colorado Blvd. in Arcadia, on Saturday, Apr. 9, at 9 a.m. Four chapter members will share about the importance of recognizing the things that God does and of expressing appreciation.

Cost of the breakfast if $7.50 and reservations may be made by calling 355-9620 or 358-3833.

Crabtree to entertain at retired teachers meet

Professional entertainer Judith Helton will portray the role of Lotta Crabtree in a one-woman show at the Friday, Apr. 8 meeting of the San Gabriel Valley Retired Teachers Association. The noon luncheon meeting will be held in the Senior Center Building in Arcadia County Park.

"Diamond in the Gold Rush" is the title of Helton's presentation, which will include authentic gold rush songs and adventures of the '49ers.

Make reservations by sending a check for $7 per person to treasurer Irene Scheele at 311 Spinks Canyon Rd., Bradbury, CA 91010. Reservation deadline is Apr. 2.

For further information, call Mildred Shaw at 447-8826.

Hsu helps hospital Asian population

To better serve San Gabriel Valley's Asian residents, Methodist Hospital of Southern California has made Teresa Hsu part of its marketing department personnel.

Hsu, a 10-year Arcadia resident who is fluent in English, Mandarin and Taiwanese, will help create communication materials and educational programs designed specifically for the Asian population which the hospital serves. In addition, she will be instrumental in developing a core of Asian community volunteers to help with translation services throughout the 347-bed facility.

A graduate of the Fuzen Catholic University in Taiwan, Hsu received a Master's degree in educational psychology at the University of La Verne.

She volunteers as an interpreter for the Arcadia Fire and Police departments, dedicates time to PTA, and is past president of the Arcadia Chinese Association. She and her husband, John, have two children: Celia, 19, attends UCLA; and Jack, 14, is a student at First Avenue Junior High School.

Methodist Hospital offers a range of special services created to provide Chinese people easier access to the American healthcare system, including a toll-free Chinese information Line, 1-800-828-8986. For more information, call the Chinese Information Line or Hsu at 821-2388.

Totten, Goetz wedding ceremony in Arcadia

Sue Totten, daughter of Arcadians Dave and Margie Totten, was married to Ian Goltz in a Feb. 12 ceremony with the Rev. J. William Daum officiating, at the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration in Arcadia. The wedding reception was held at the San Gabriel Country Club.

Jane Richter Haderlein of Pasadena was the matron of honor, and she and two bridesmaids are friends from Arcadia: Kristen Hansen Brakeman, now living in Glendale, and Karen Van Kirk, Santa Monica. Other attendants were Alpha Phi sorority sisters from the University of California at Berkeley: Elizabeth Shaw Arendsee from Dallas, Texas; Monica Nolan Johnson, Palo Alto; and Judy Wade, New York City.

The bride wore an off-the-shoulder ivory satin gown with pearls on the bodice and tulle over the taffeta skirt. Her bouquet was of white roses, lavender star gazers and ivy with touches of pink and red. Her attendants wore purple, two-piece dresses.

Other attendants were cousins of the bride: Jennifer and Cory Totten, acolytes; Kelly Totten, ring bearer; Brianna Burns, flower girl; and Charlotte Clymer, guest book. Scripture lessons were read by Wando Monuk, sister of the groom, and Hope Kragh, sorority sister of the bride.

The new Mrs. Goltz graduated from U.C. Berkeley with a bachelor of arts degree in English literature. She is employed as director of development at U.C. Irvine. The groom earned a B.S. in earth sciences from the University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada and a master in hydro-geology from the University of Waterloo in Ontario. He is employed by Levine Fricke as an environmental engineer.

The newlyweds took a ski vacation to Jackson Hole and Grand Targhee in Wyoming for their honeymoon, and they are now at home in Corona del Mar.

The groom is the son of Aubrey and Catherine Golt of Skeleton Lake, Ontario, Canada. Owen Goltz, brother of the groom from Orangeville, Ontario, Canada, was the best man. Ushers were John Thomas, a boyhood friend now living in Ogdensberg, New York; David McClellan, a friend from the University of Waterloo, now residing in Ontario; Scott Martin from Costa Mesa; and Greg and Paul Totten, brothers of the bride, from Arcadia.

Chicken pies and more at Moffett's Restaurant

Using the same recipe that made chicken pies popular in Long Beach in the 1920s, Ralph Burton and his brother, Stan, serve chicken pies as well as beef and fruit pies from a full menu at Moffett's Family Restaurant in Arcadia.

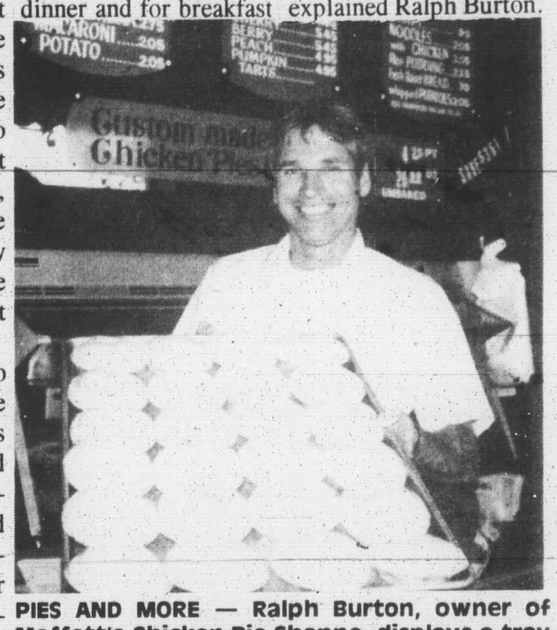

Moffett's was opened locally in 1975 by Carmen and Raymond Moffett, the Burtons' sister and her husband. The restaurant is located at 1409 S. Baldwin, at the same site where Drake's Chicken Pie Shop once stood. Drake used to work for the Moffett family in Long Beach, and he used the same recipe that was used by the Moffetts, when he opened his take-out business.

Ralph Burton, who had experience in the restaurant business working at Howard Johnson in San Luis Obispo where he attended Cal Poly, bought the local restaurant about four years ago from his sister and invited his brother to join him as manager. Stan Burton had been the chef at a Mexican restaurant in San Luis Obispo.

They offer weekly lunch and dinner specials, with chicken pies and the roast turkey being among the most popular, according to the Burtons, who have recently enforced a no smoking policy at the restaurant. Moffett's is open daily for lunch and dinner and for breakfast on Sunday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Moffett's offers chicken, beef and fruit pies to go and will help make entertaining easier by providing chicken or beef casserole dishes on order.

The philosophy that has made Moffett's a popular family restaurant is to offer quality food and good service at a reasonable price, explained Ralph Burton.

PIES AND MORE — Ralph Burton, owner of Moffett's Chicken Pie Shoppe, displays a tray of the pies which have made the local restaurant a popular place to find chicken and beef pies as well as a complete menu.

CITIZEN ALERT

March 31, 1994

Dear Arcadia Resident:

Responsible voices have remained silent too long. IT IS TIME TO CORRECT THE RECORD.

Some grumpy ex-mayors (GEMS) who are acting under the name of Arcadia Mayors and others for Good Government and who are led by Charles Gilb, Jack Saelid and Jim Helms are destroying our City with false statements and malicious innuendos. Last week you probably received on of their undated and unsigned flyers filled with untruths. For example, there is no sweetheart deal; there is no arbitrage game; and the office furniture is on loan from the Mayor. Huntington Drive infrastructure and other improvements will come from CRA and Public Works monies, Special funds which cannot be transferred to the General Fund. The General Fund will stay intact, etc., etc., etc.

The GEMs would have the City return to the underachieving days when they ruled; days of deteriorating tax base and infrastructure,; mansionization; a golden credit card for their City Manager; and generally "do nothing" policies. The GEMS hope to achieve the return to their past by promoting the election of their hand picked candidates RVG, MY and BK.

The City cannot afford the past. The City and its citizens do not deserve these divisive tactics. Join us in rejecting these efforts.

The present Council is doing what needs to be done to make up for the past; a library addition, a new fire station; and revitalization and development of a better tax base. Already Ralph's Market and Burlington Coat Factory are adding new tax revenues and Albertsons and Nordstrom are on the way. The council deserves your support.

We have an election coming up. We ask you to join us and a majority of former mayors in voting for positive leadership to achieve what the City so urgently needs.

PLEASE VOTE FOR MAYOR JOE CIRAULO, COUNCILMAN GEORGE FASCHING AND A CANDIDATE OF YOUR CHOICE.

This letter is paid for by the undersigned who are dedicated to a better and achieving Arcadia.

Queen Anne Cottage Open House to feature dolls, vintage toys

Showcasing toys, dolls and games of yesteryear, the Queen Anne Cottage and Coach Barn Open House will be held at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum on Sunday, Apr. 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Dolls of wood, porcelain and bisque will occupy places of honor throughout the cottage, along with vintage doll furniture and toy tea sets. High wheel bicycles, metal toys, carts and sleds will be parked in the Coach Barn beside building blocks, puzzles, and board games.

Open House is the only time of the year when the 1885 Queen Anne Cottage opens its doors to the public for close-up viewing of its turn-of-the-century collections.

Regular Arboretum admission prices will be in effect: adults, $5, students and seniors, $3; and children from 5-12, $1. An additional donation of $2 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under will provide entry to the historical buildings. All proceeds will benefit the Arboretum's Historical Preservation Fund.

In addition, there will be a Preview Open House on Saturday, Apr. 16, 4-6:30 p.m., when guests will be invited to enjoy wine and cheese on the lawn in front of the Queen Anne Cottage.

Advance reservations at $12 per person are required. Reservation deadline is Apr. 8. Parking and entry will be through the Santa Anita Depot parking lot located south of the main Arboretum entrance.

For further information, call 821-3222.

Hwang named semifinalist

Jerry Hwang, an Arcadia High School senior, has been named one of approximately 2600 semifinalists in the 1994 Presidential Scholars Program. The semifinalists were selected from more than 2.5 million students expected to graduate from U.S. high schools in 1994.

From these semifinalists, 141 will be selected as the 1994 Presidential Scholars. The White House will announce their selection in mid-May.

GRAD NIGHT PLANNERS — Cindy Kang, Arcadia High School senior class president, and Kathy Pluim, Grad Night chairman, discuss plans for the 13th annual Grad Night extravaganza to be held following the AHS graduation. A "Fairy Tale" theme has been chosen by senior students. The Grad Night committee is looking for help with printing services, building supplies, food, cases of soda, costumes, stuffed animals, door prizes and financial contributions. Call Pluim at 355-7444 for more information.

AAUW reaches scholarship goal

Edith Ackerman, chairman of the Educational Foundation of the Arcadia Branch of the American Association of University Women, has announced that the local branch recently reached its scholarship goal of $6000 for the 1993-94 year.

Money was raised by selling entertainment books and children's books, holding a silent auction and bridge events and hosting a non-event in which members donated to the Educational Foundation in lieu of attending an event.

The Educational Foundation supports a variety of scholarship and endowment programs to assist girls and women in furthering their education in the fields of science, math and computer science in the United States as well as in foreign countries.

Friends name new silent auction

"Arcadia, City of the Santa Anita," signed and dated by the author, Gordon Eberly, in 1953, is one of 10 items in the current silent auction offered by Friends of the Arcadia Public Library. Auction items are on display in the circulation area of the library and will be available for bidding through Apr. 30.

Other items are "Zinnias and Daisies," framed watercolor by Claire Jones; "Olaf Wieghorst," an illustrated and signed edition by William Reed with forward by Barry Goldwater; "Two People," a novel by the children's author A.A. Milne; "City Festivals," an 1893 edition by Wil Carleton; and "By Motor to the Golden Gate" by Emily Post in 1916.

Other offerings are "The Life of Christ," by Rev. John Fleetwood in 1868; "Sailor's Knots" by Cyrus Lawrence Day; "Idylls of the King," a boxed 1939 edition by Alfred Lord Tennyson; and a double offering of "Bernard Shaw—His Life, Work and Friends" by St. John Ervine and "The Crime of Imprisonment" by George Bernard Shaw.

Don Hage
Businessman and former Mayor

"She knows her town like nobody else really does. She understands finances. She's not going to support deficit spending."

Pam Costarella
Chairman, Senior Citizens of Arcadia Assistance League

"I will be voting for Ruth Gilb. We need her know-how...her business background...her understanding of the value of a tax dollar."

Jack Saelid
Former Mayor and engineering manager

"Arcadia is facing its worst fiscal picture that I have any recollection of. We need Ruth Gilb. Ruth knows how to balance a budget...she's a business lady...we need her skills."

Carol Libby
Former Arcadia PTA Council President

"Whenever you ask Ruth to do a job she does it and then some! We need follow-through in Arcadia. The City needs Ruth Gilb."

"Arcadia's term limits dictate that I must step down from the City Council after eight years of service. It has been no secret that I do not agree with the direction the City Council has taken our city in the past two years and I am deeply concerned for our future. Arcadia must return to a conservative philosophy, particularly in the area of spending. I am confident that Ruth Gilb will put our city back on track and I highly recommend her for your vote on April 12.

"Upon leaving the Council at the end of my term, I want to know that I am replaced by a new council member who will show restraint in spending and a genuine concern for our City. Join with me and vote for Ruth Gilb on April 12."

— Bob Harbicht

Citizens to Elect Ruth V. Gilb, 821 Balboa Drive, Arcadia, CA 91007 ID# 940172

First Avenue, Dana elect Chung, Setoguchi

Students at Dana and First Avenue Junior High Schools have elected student body officers for the second semester of the school year.

At First Avenue, Steve Chung is president of the executive council; while Seoyoung Kim is vice president; Shannen Kim, secretary; Anna Chung, treasurer; Melody Ng, historian; Jason Jervis and Jina Noh, pep commissioners; Jack Wang, athletic commissioner; Ann Ma, fine arts commissioner, Margaret Ng, activities commissioner; Nicolas Lamb, eighth grade representative; and Austin Adams, seventh grade representative.

The council will be promoting the Homework Hotline, which allows students to call a number for homework assignments, according to Chung, who also said that the council is conducting a penny drive to raise funds for the Spartan baseball and softball teams.

Officers at Dana include Tritia Setoguchi, president; Stephanie Roter, treasurer; Kristin King, director of service; Elizabeth Park, secretary; Joey McCarthy, historian; Nicole Mosteller and Kelley Jones, pep commissioners; Jonathan Barker, ninth grade vice president; Stephanie Cruz, eighth grade vice president; and Alex Hong, seventh grade vice president.

Dana student officers will be coordinating a community service project and Teacher Appreciation Day as well as campus beautification. They will help with orientation for elementary school students and will assist with transition to the high school for eighth and ninth graders.

FIRST AVENUE OFFICERS — Newly elected student body officers at First Avenue Junior High School are, front, Austin Adams, Seoyoung Kim, Steve Chung and Anna Chung; middle, Margaret Ng, Ann Ma, Melody Ng and Shannen Kim; and back, Jina Noh, Jason Jervis and Nick Lamb.

Learning Disabilities Assoc. to hold race-day benefit

"Kids in the Klass," a program on learning disabilities for teachers, is one of the services by the Los Angeles Chapter of the Learning Disabilities Association which will benefit from a Day at the Races at Santa Anita Park on Sunday, Apr. 24.

The local chapter of the only national organization devoted to defining and finding solutions for a broad range of learning problems will also use race-day proceeds to purchase materials for a resource library, which will offer a video viewing room for parents, families and edueators associated with children who have learning disabilities, explained Michael Federico of South Pasadena, president of the Los Angeles Chapter of LDA.

The race-day benefit, which is being planned by Bob and Cathy Fickas of Arcadia, will be held in Santa Anita's infield, where participants will have a barbecue lunch and watch the Thoroughbred races.

Featured event will be the $400,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap, a Grade I invitational on the turf for 4-year-olds and up. Post time for the first race is 12:30 p.m.

Tickets at $15 for adults, $6 for teenagers and $3 for children may be reserved by calling (818) 355-0240.

RACE-DAY BENEFIT — Michael Federico joins Cathy and Bob Fickas for morning workouts at Santa Anita Park to make final plans for an upcoming Day at the Races benefit sponsored by the Los Angeles Chapter of the Learning Disabilities Association.

Porter becomes T of R president

With a goal to reestablish past membership levels and involvement, Mike Porter has become the new president of the Arcadia Tournament of Roses Association.

A chiropractor who has 16 years of practice in the San Gabriel Valley, he had moved his office to Arcadia four years ago. After growing up in Alhambra, he went on to graduate from Cal State University Los Angeles and Southern California School of Chiropractic.

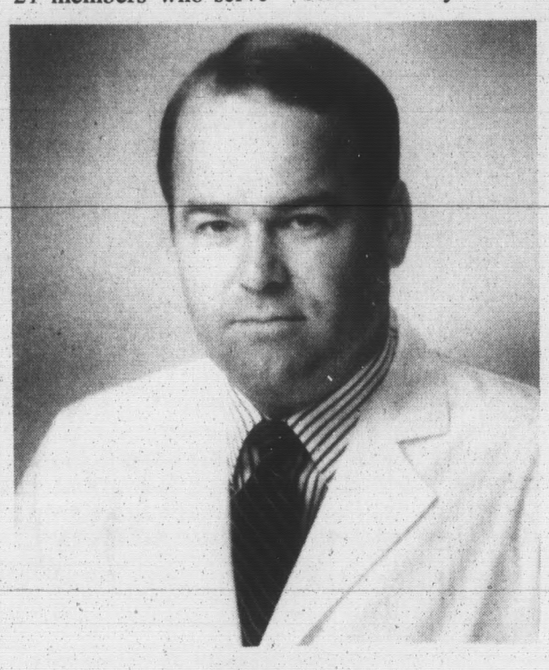

Porter lives in La Verne with his wife, Pattie, and their children Kelly, 7 and Teddy, 3.

The association is in the process of selecting a float for the 1995 Rose Parade, which will focus on the theme "Sports—Quest for Excellence." Several fundraising events are held throughout the year to make it possible for the city to have a float in the parade; however, the association receives no funds from the city, pointed out Porter.

The next event will be a gold tournament at San Dimas Canyon Golf Course on June 3.

Members of the association's executive committee are Lisa Zonver, president elect; Vince Foley, first vice president; Don Kennedy, second vice president; and Polly Schmutz, secretary/treasurer.

In addition, there are 21 members who serve on the board; they are Shep Aparicio, Dianne C. Chapman, Jack Cudworth, Virginia Franklin, Denice Gilb, Mary E. Hansen, Robert Harbur, Patti Hegarty, Gary Jacobsen, Mike Lamb, Gordon Maddock, Rick McGrath, Carol Morrison, Jonathon Sprecher, Mark Stevens, Lew Stueck, John Teel, Carmen Thibault, Karen Towner, Peter Ulrich and Steve Worsley.

Bea Buono

Buono becomes Golden Age boss

A friend suggested that she might enjoy membership in the Arcadia Golden Age Club. That was 10 years ago, and now Bea Buono serves as president of the senior group which boasts about 150 members.

Buono, who has lived in San Gabriel for "many years," taught cosmetology for 10 years before opening up her own cosmetics business in Whittier. She ran the business for 20 years before retiring.

Her goal as president of Golden Agers is to help keep it a "happy club" and to increase membership.

Other officers are Jeanette Milier, first vice president; Edith Nafie, second vice president; Adele DeRose, secretary; Vivian Stary, assistant secretary; Virginia Oppmann, treasurer; and Elizabeth Von Weiner, assistant treasurer.

The Arcadia Golden Age Club meets each Thursday at 11 a.m. at Assistance League of Arcadia's Community House, 100 S. Santa Anita Ave. Annual dues are $3. For more information, call Senior Citizen Services at 574-5130.

Tyson leads AEF in quest for ELF funds

Cathy Tyson, a 10-year member of the Arcadia Educational Foundation Board of Trustees, is serving as president for 1993-94, when AEF is hoping to raise $200,000 for Arcadia Unified School District's "Electronic Library of the Future" project.

Based on the belief that the ability to use technology to access multi-media databases and apply this information to research projects is the key ingredient to success in the world today, AEF is committed to providing the AUSD with the funds necessary to undertake instructional technology projects which are beyond the district's resources.

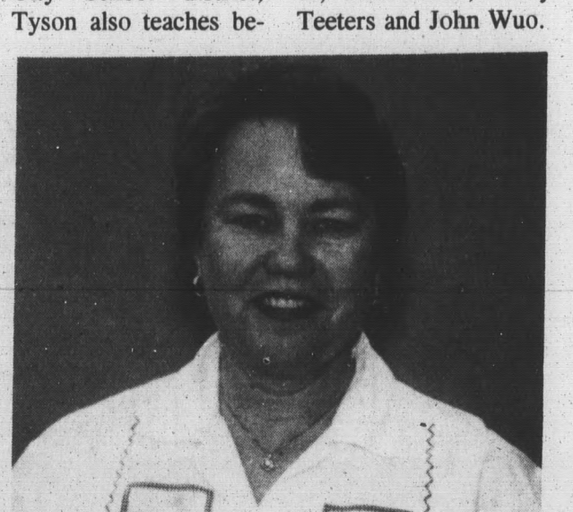

The goal of the ELF project is to provide AUSD students and teachers with access to world-class information banks as well as skills and experience in using Information Age tools required for success in college and in the work world.

Tyson has been volunteering in Arcadia schools since 1981, when her children attended Baldwin Stocker Elementary School, and has served the PTAs at the elementary school, First Avenue Junior High and Arcadia High. In addition, she was a member of the Financial Advisory Committee for Tomorrow's Schools, the committee challenged to solve financial problems facing the school district, and she worked on the Arcadia School Bond Executive Election Committee, which successfully passed a $28 million school bond last year.

An elementary school teacher in the Alhambra City School district, Tyson also teaches beginning reading, writing and spelling for Alhambra Adult School.

Other AEF officers are Anthony Parrille, vice president, fundraising; Jim Eberhardt, vice president, publicity; Jan McEachern, secretary; Alvin Albe, treasurer; and Jim Romo, immediate past president.

Newest appointees to the 30-member board are Young Ahn, Pat Alarid, Susan Albe, Sharon Briffett, Joanne Harris, Michael Hawkins, Bob Hayashi, Randy Kroha, Mike Real, Marcy Reich, Jim Rider, Vicki Rinek, Nancy Teeters and John Wuo.

AHS alumni to offer scholarships

Scholarships in the total amount of $7000 will be awarded to seven graduating seniors by the Arcadia High School Alumni Association, announced Gary Kovacic, chairman of the scholarship committee.

The top award is the Richard Cordano Scholarship in the amount of $1500. Five additional $1000 scholarships will also be awarded. In addition, a Special Achievement Scholarship of $500 will be given to a student in the high school's special education or vocational arts programs.

The alumni association scholarship program was instituted in 1975 when two $250 wards were given.

Scholarship applications are available now through Apr. 22 in the AHS counseling office.

Oil recycling containers offered

Through a $10,000 grant from the California Integrated Waste Management Board, the city of Arcadia is making available a limited amount of used oil recycling containers to Arcadia residents. Containers may be picked up at Chief Auto Parts, located at 1451 S. Baldwin Ave. from 8 a.m to 10 p.m., seven days a week.

Chief Auto Parts has been designated as the city's used oil recycling center.

Grant funds will be utilized to purchase 3000 six-quart oil recycling containers, which Arcadia residents can obtain free of charge by showing proof of residency. The containers can be used to dispose of motor oil and returned to Chief Auto Parts for recycling.

For additional information about this program designed to encourage recycling and the proper disposal of used oil, call Tammy Gates at Arcadia City Hall, 574-5436.

40TH INVITATIONAL — Joe Cork, chairman of the 1993 Arcadia Festival of Bands, presents a certificate and check for $4000, proceeds from the 40th annual invitational band review, to Mary Dougherty, president of the Governing Board, Arcadia Unified School District. Total net proceeds raised was $20,000, with $10,000 going to the High School Music Club, $2000 to each junior high music club and the remainder is designated for the elementary music program.

Free income tax service

Arcadia Senior Citizen Services volunteer tax aides will prepare 1993 income tax returns for people over 60 years of age with combined taxable/non-taxable incomes under $32,000.

Appointments are required and may be made Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., by calling 574-5130. It is requested that callers have in hand their 1992 federal income tax copy when making an appointment.

For Arcadia...For Tomorrow...

CELIA KALM

Arcadia City Council...April 12

Here's why:

• Fiscal Responsibility - Celia Kalm will take the long-term steps necessary to attract additional development to the City of Arcadia so that property tax revenue and sales tax revenue--the two major components of the City's income stream--will continue to grow in future years to fund the community's need for essential services within a balanced budget.

• Balanced Development - Celia Kalm views downtown revitalization as just one part of the City's overall redevelopment need. She will take the responsibility for assuring that the City has an overall development plan that will maintain the integrity of residential areas and bring all commercial and industrial areas up to a new standard for the 21st century.

• Quality City Management - Celia Kalm stands for a cohesive City Council that delegates day-to-day affairs to a qualified city manager. She will provide the atmosphere to attract a new city manager who has the needed skills and experience, as well as the personality that is compatible with our community.

• Unified Leadership - Celia Kalm will provide unity in the City Council's decision-making process so that the City can move forward in a dynamic fashion--without bickering or backbiting--to meet the needs of its citizens.

Notes from the Library

By Nancy Smith
Reference Librarian, Arcadia Public Library

The following citizens have donated a magazine gift subscription to the library: Mr. and Mrs. John Fee, Mr. and Mrs. John Golper, Mr. and Mrs. George Hachten, Harriet Hamming, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kalinger, Sun Chin-Wen Liu, Frank and Harriet Mountain, Phyllis Nemeth, Alicia Quiroz, Mr. and Mrs. John Reuter, Jorge Ribeiro, Ann Sanchez and Dr. and Mrs. Michael Yamane. Foothill Federal Credit Union also donated a subscription.

Because of their generosity, the library will be able to maintain to diverse periodicals collection and provide check-out copies as well.

Congratulations to librarian Mike Germroth, who won an award at a ceremony held last month to honor recipients of the city of Arcadia's Employee Suggestion Award. Mike won $100 for his suggestion to improve the copier services at the library.

The library has hired a project/construction manager to manage the upcoming renovation. Lisa Sachs will oversee the whole process from architectural working drawings to building completion. The project is still on track. Look for construction to begin sometime this November.

Welcome Legi-Tech! The library now has access to this timely and accurate California State Legislature information service. Librarians can print out the legislative calendar of committee hearings, use "bill tracking" to find out when a bill will be heard in committee and where it is in th legislative process. Staff will also be able to search all bills in California by subject and/or bill number and, when found, print out the text of the bill.

The library's automated periodical and newspaper index, ProQuest, has received a fact lift. The new version sent in early March provides access through January 1994 for 547 magazine and newspaper titles.

The Children's Room staff has begun preparation for its summer reading programs. The theme this year will be "Dive into a Good Book" and will feature ocean/water activities. Attendance for storytimes and class visits during the month of February was 1263.

Renewals by phone will become effective Apr. 4. During the hours of 6-8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, patrons will be able to renew material, providing the item(s) is (are) not on hold for someone else and have no overdue a-mounts. Call 446-7112 and ask to renew. Items may be renewed one time.

The most popular books to circulate last month were "Disclosure" by Michael Crichton (fiction) and "Stop the Insanity" by Susan Powter (non-fiction).

February was the busiest month on record for the reference desk. Librarians answered 3728 questions, almost 1500 more than were answered in February 1984. That's an increase of 65 percent in 10 years.

A book drive held last month by the Friends of the Library was a great success. Books donated will be sold in the annual May book sale. A 25 cent honor system book sale is currently being held in the lobby. Purchasers are asked to donate 25 cents for each book taken.

EAGLE SCOUT PROJECT — Jim Dunbar, executive director of Arcadia Red Cross, presents a Certificate of Appreciation to Tom Morgan, an Eagle Scout candidate, while Ed Stanislawski, Scout Master of Troop 110, and Gene Gaffney, Eagle Scout specialist for the San Gabriel Valley Boy Scout Council, watch the presentation.

Eagle candidate builds donor board

The Arcadia Chapter of the American Red Cross has presented Tom Morgan with a Certificate of Appreciation for the project he did for the Red Cross in working toward his Eagle Scout award.

Morgan, a 15-year-old sophomore home school student through Laural Spring School, created and built the chapter's donor recognition board entitled "Our Special Friends." It presently holds 276 names and has the capacity to hold approximately three times that amount on five wooden panels. Four panels are on display now and the fifth one will be used for future donors.

"He has clearly demonstrated the qualities of creativity, organization, perseverance, leadership and the ability to work with others that this undertaking required," said Joan Cline, chairman of the board of directors for the local Red Cross chapter.

Morgan, who hopes to have his Eagle requirements completed in the next two to three months, has been a member of Boy Scout Troop 110 for the past five years.

Lai wins Lions' speech contest

David Lai, an Arcadia High School senior, outscored 13 other contestants to win the annual Arcadia Lions Club Student Speakers Contest.

The topic of this year's contest, which is open to students in grades 9-12 throughout California and Nevada, was "Today's Youth—Why the Violence."

By winning the Arcadia contest, Lai qualifies for the zone contest.

Judges in the contest were Celia Kalm, candidate for Arcadia City Council; Al Little of Val Realty, and Monty Lindsay, president protem of Arcadia Chamber of Commerce.

Nominations open for top senior

Nominations are now open for the 1994 Senior Citizen of the Year, a recognition sponsored by Arcadia Senior Citizen Services.

A nominee must be 60 years of age or better, a resident of Arcadia and actively involved in volunteer work.

The honoree will receive a plaque from the mayor of Arcadia and will be honored by the Arcadia Rotary Club in a Salute to Seniors Picnic. In addition, his or her name will be inscribed on a perpetual plaque which is on display in the Arcadia Community Center.

Applications are available at the Community Center, 365 Campus Dr., or may be obtained through the mail by calling 574-5130.

Body Shop to open

The Body Shop, an international company that manufactures and retails naturally based skin and hair care products, will open in Santa Anita Fashion Park on Monday, Apr. 11.

The Body Shop invites the Arcadia community to a grand opening celebration beginning at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Apr. 16. There will be refreshments, product samples, a ribbon-cutting ceremony and live entertainment.

Founded 18 years ago by Anita Roddick, Body Shop opened its first U.S. shop in 1988 and now has over 167 locations throughout the country.

The new Santa Anita store will be managed by Lisa Griffin.

Elks install Aitchison

Bill Aitchison was installed as Exhalted Ruler of Arcadia Elks Lodge No. 2025 during an inaugural ball attended by 270 people. Other officers installed by Grand Exalted Ruler Rex Dondlinger were Stephen Brubaker, Esteemed Leading Knight; Mike Martin, esteemed Loyal Knight; and Richard Gretebeck, Esteemed Lecturing Knight.

The local Elks lodge sponsors bingo, which is open to the public, every Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m. Proceeds from such fund-raising projects go to designated charities and youth projects.

The Arcadia Elks Lodge is located at 27 W. Huntington Dr. in Arcadia. Call 445-2025 for more information.

Reaction to candidate

On Mar. 30, KAZN Chinese Radio offered the candidates for Arcadia City Council time to introduce themselves and tell us what they stand for. Most of it was similar to what I had heard at the Arcadia Chinese Association and AAUW forums.

Except for one candidate: Karen Towner.

Mrs. Towner apparently is running for Empress of Arcadia instead of for one of five council seats. In her presentation she firmly asserted that she is the only candidate:

who has the full support of the Arcadia Police Relief Association. This must come as a surprise to the group which has publicly supported three other candidates.

who could instill programs to protect we Chinese in this foreign, hostile land called Arcadia. It would seem from Mrs. Towner's implication, the past and current councils are procrime.

who, because she is "married to Dr. Terrance Towner, the Superintendent of Schools," could ensure us the quality of education that drew us to Arcadia. It is convenient that Mrs. Towner is able to dismiss any allegations of conflict of interest because of who her spouse is, and yet claim she can guarantee us an outstanding educational system because of that relationship.

I was shocked and disgusted at her calculated use of cultural fear tactics, and I would like to think the educated Chinese voters of Arcadia can see through what she was attempting to do.

I contacted KAZN to request a tape of that broadcast, and was told that Dr. Towner accompanied his wife to the station. I interpret his presence as proof that he supports her assertions and falsehoods. If she can guarantee us a quality education by virtue of her husband, does that mean if she is not elected, our children will suffer?

I will request that the Arcadia School Board listen to this taped broadcast and inquire into the exact nature of Dr. Towner's stance on this matter. His apparent willingness to allow his wife to portray our safety and our children's education at the mercy of her election is unprofessional. It is unfair to the school system he is being paid to protect and improve.

Karen Towner lost my vote and her husband lost my respect.

City finances

Certain candidates for the Arcadia City Council have made several errors of fact during their recent presentations to the public.

For example, one of the incumbents, Mr. Ciraulo, states that he is proud to have been part of the Council that has reduced the budget $1 million over the past four years. The figures do not support this statement. The operating budget has increased every year during this period. In 1990, a budget of $20,980,041 was adopted, an increase of 7.3 percent over the previous year. In 1991, an increase of 9.2 percent brought the budget to $22,912,011, and created a deficit of $133,258. In 1992, the Council adopted a budget of $23,832,513. This 4 percent increase brought with it a deficit of $1,007,714. Not recognizing the seriousness of their financial situation, the Council last year adopted a $24,804,387 budget. It is now estimated that for the third consecutive year, Arcadia will operate at a deficit, this time at an estimated loss of $1,500,000 or more. Both incumbents voted for these budgets, and in no year was there a reduction. Paraphrasing former U.S. Senator Hayakawa in his characterization of Congress, "they may know addition, but they sure don't know subtraction."

The "Downtown Revitalization Program" is endorsed by the incumbents and some candidates. Although intended to increase the sales tax revenue base, it will not even pay off a minimal investment of $5 million before the year 2009, according the city's Economic Report. This assumes the effort to be successful, which seems unlikely. The same report states: "The City of Arcadia should

Dana students win second Regional Science Olympiad competition

The Dana Junior High School Science Olympiad team finished first for the second consecutive year in the Los Angeles County Regional Science Olympiad competition held last month at Downey High School. The team of 15 students will go on to the state contest on Apr. 9 at Cal State Fullerton.

In the regional event, Dana competed against 24 schools, including two science magnet schools, in 15 different events, such as building a paper airplane that could fly the longest, constructing, a vehicle powered by a triggered mousetrap, estimating the volume, weight or length of a certain object and calculating the efficiency of simple machines.

Annie Chung and Ian Stewart are co-captains of the team that includes David Choi, Angela Chou, Armando Gutierrez, Peter Hauge, Alex Hong, Alice Hsieh, Nathan Flowers-Jacobs, Cathernie Ng, Chris Saenz, Todd Smith, Timmy Tung, Maggie Ho and Elbert Yip.

Joe Fox, Dana principal, is the team's coach, and he is assisted by teachers Beth Foye and Roy Smith.

Posch, Inagaki, Suchter named top Rotary students

Arcadia High School seniors David Bosch, Mitzi Inagaki and Sean Suchter have been honored by the Arcadia Rotary Club as Students of the Month.

A three-year letterman in basketball and the winner of the Most Valuable Player award for junior varsity basketball in the 1992-93 season, Bosch was recognized for his athletic accomplishments.

He plans to go to Cal Poly University/Pomona to study international business.

A song leader on the high school pep squad and president of Orchesis, the performing dance club, Inagaki receives the Student of the Month recognition for performing arts. She also is a Candystriper at Huntington Memorial Hospital.

Inagaki will be going to Westmont College next year with undecided plans for a major course of study.

Suchter, who is recognized for academic achievement, has been a member of the Advanced Placement Government team, which was runner-up at the state level in competition of the Bill of Rights. He is a Rensselaer award winner for math and science, delegate to Boy's State, and a National Merit Semi-finalist.

He plans to major in computer science at California Institute of Technology.

Bridge classes

Two new intermediate bridge classes will be offered at the Bridge Center in Arcadia. Intermediate lessons are for people who have completed a beginning class or people who want to brush up their bridge game.

Evening class will begin Thursday, Apr. 14, at 6:45 p.m., while daytime classes will begin Saturday, Apr. 16, at 9:45 a.m.

ARCADIA SCENE

by JoAnn Scott

The Arcadia scene is being dotted with campaign posters scattered on lawns throughout the city, and our mailboxes and even doorknobs are being stuffed with campaign literature. It is exciting to think that there are as many as 11 people who want to give of themselves to serve on the council. Unfortunately, the campaigning process has deviated from issues to personalities, and I hope that all concerned remember that we will continue to reside as friends and neighbors in this Community of Homes even after the election is over.

The important thing to do, if you have not already done so, is to study the issues and the positions taken by each candidate. Then, remember to vote next Tuesday, Apr. 12.

In colors of purple and yellow, pansies made their statement of centerpiece bags, plates, decorations and even in the scarf and on the hat worn by Celia Kalm, co-chairman of the 20th annual Mayor's Prayer Breakfast. For more years than either can remember, June Fee and Celia have been in charge of this Good Friday tradition, originated 20 years ago by my father-in-law, Alton "Scotty" Scott.

The Rev. Roger Sonnenberg of Our Savior Lutheran Church began the inspirational message by identifying numerous tragedies that have occurred recently, pointing out that through all this we need hope. "That's what Easter, Spring are all about," he said. He explained that Easter is God's way of wiping away tears, that it was a time for pluses amongst the minuses.

Jonathan Mack from the Los Angeles Opera Company chose no opera, but music for the "celebration of spring." Included in his selections were "The Lord's Prayer" and a request by Mayor Joe Ciraulo, "Ave Maria."

Ten former mayors were part of the crowd of 380 people who attended the breakfast on Friday morning in Ayres Hall at the Arboretum. Former mayors were Bob Arth, Jack Saelid, Dave Parry, Bob Margett, Dennis Lojeski, Mary Young, Bob Harbicht, Charles Gilb and George Fasching. L.A. County Supervisor Mike Antonovich was also in attendance.

Bob Daggett and his crew of Rotarians served the quiche/fruit/muffin meal in a promised 10 minutes. Pat Wallace was so busy organizing the serving in the kitchen that she almost missed the cue to join Mary Hansen in leading the flag salute. Pat and Mary are co-Volunteers of the Year.

Proceeds from the breakfast will be shared by the campership program, Rotary Salute to Seniors Day and Methodist Hospital emergency room.

In last week's "Scene" column, I wrote about an Arcadia High School graduate who has operated a hair salon business in Arcadia, The Forum, for 19 years. The article incorrectly identified him and said that he was a 1997 AHS graduate, when in fact, Ludy Frew is a member of the Class of 1971 and his wife, Merrilynn, graduated in 1972.

On Thursday after The News was delivered, I received two telephone calls pointing out my mistake. Can I blame it on the proofreader? One caller who knew Ludy and knew that he had an unusual name said that the mistake was "funny" and that it "put a smile on her face."

I apologize to Ludy for the mistake and hope that he doesn't mind too much, after all, his story hit this column for two weeks in a row.

Bonnie Gould, marketing coordinator at Santa Anita Park, and Candie Chew, graphic and event coordinator, recently helped brighten the day for a resident of the Community Hospice of San Gabriel. Jeanne Williams, who is in her early 60s, is confined to a wheelchair and has an inoperable brain tumor.

She loves horses and has always had a yearning to pet and feed one. A rather modest wish, but until Friday, she had never had the chance.

Accompanied by her daughter, Lori, and volunteer, Sandy Feese, of the Community Hospice, Jeanne enjoyed breakfast in Clockers' Corner while getting a close-up look at the thoroughbreds in training for upcoming races at Santa Anita. She then was taken to the paddock walking ring where she was introduced to Sparky, a pony from trainer Matt Chew's barn. Jeanne got to feed carrots to the pony and seemed thrilled. Trainer Charlie Whittingham even went over to say hello. "Mrs. Williams was absolutely elated," said Candie.

seek to attract the types of businesses that already do well in the city and surrounding area to the Huntington core..." This would just transfer revenue from one part of the city to another, and create other "blighted" business areas.

The statement that "redevelopment money can only be used for redevelopment" fails to recognize that the Redevelopment Agency has borrowed $5 million from the city. This loan could be repaid from the agency to reduce the city's fiscal problem. Redevelopment money is not "a gift from heaven" as one candidate seems to imply, but Arcadia taxpayers' money which was loaned to the agency.

Regarding the use of reserve funds to cover deficits, the Equipment Replacement fund is the next most likely target for the Council to raid. The earnings on this fund are used to purchase the city's police cars, other vehicles, computers and other office equipment. If this fund is depleted, the costs of these items will become an additional expense to the city. This fund should be protected. It is an important part of the overall plan of the previous councils to provide our city personnel with the best equipment to do the job without the need for tax increases.

With its mounting deficits, the council has continued to give 7 percent raises to the employees...this, at a time when the private sector was averaging 2 to 3 percent. Naturally, the organized employees have endorsed these incumbents. The council has nearly used up the General Fund reserves and now looks to using others. This is a radical departure from the careful stewardship of public funds that characterized the council in previous years.

The lack of responsible and prudent actions by the council during the last two years has placed the city on a course toward fiscal instability and demoralized the city staff. We cannot continue on this course. It is now our responsibility to replace these free-spending incumbents with people who will get Arcadia back on a firm financial footing.

I therefore urge the election of Ruth V. Gilb, Mary Young, and Barbara Kuhn.

Jack Saelid,
Former Mayor,
City of Arcadia

How Smart Planning Can Help You Avoid These Five Financial Blunders.
A sound financial plan is more than a budget, it's a tool for taking control of your future and turning your dreams into reality. Without a plan, you may be making these common financial blunders:
1. Paying too much in taxes.
2. Failing to save adequately for retirement.
3. Failing to establish a systematic savings plan.
4. Failing to match investments with your tolerance for risk.
5. Failing to set financial goals.

Tyman throws no-hitter

Dan Tyman, an Arcadia High School pitcher, threw the second no-hitter in school history when the Apaches defeated Pasadena 4-0 last week Tuesday. Only two Pasadena batters got on base, one on a walk and the other on an error, and neither got beyond first base, as Tyman faced only 23 batters, striking out 10. Tim Lindsey is the only other pitcher to throw a no-hitter; his came in 1986.

Offensive leaders in the shutout were Justin Stewart, who went 2-for-3 with two RBI; and Jason Cly, 2-for-3, one RBI.

In other action last week, when the Apaches went 3-0 in Pacific League competition, Arcadia defeated Muir 9-4 and beat Glendale 6-2.

Stewart had two doubles and a pair of RBI against Muir, when Cly was the starting and winning pitcher.

Ryan Baderian was 3-for-4 with four RBI in Arcadia's 6-2 victory over Glendale on Friday. He doubled in the four-run fifth inning to seal the victory for the Apaches. Chris Humpert, the leadoff batter, doubled and tripled, going 2-for-4, and scored twice in the win.

Arcadia, 5-0 in Pacific League action, will face two non-league opponents this week. Today, Apr. 7, the Apaches will travel to San Gabriel for a 1 p.m. game and on Friday, Apr. 8, Arcadia will host Bellflower in a double header beginning at 11 a.m.

Arcadia Pony results reported

A pair of two-run homers highlighted a 7-6 victory for the Braves over the Pirates in Arcadia Pony National League action last week. John Wickhem got the Pirates on the scoreboard first with a two-run homer following a single by Christian Ortiz. In the top of the final inning, Jimmy Slater's sacrifice bunt scored Wesley Wilkes to give the Pirates a 6-4 lead. The Braves came back with Brian Johansing's home run to tie the game. Michael Bueno, Eric Rodriguez and Bryant Romo drew walks, and Bueno stole home to end the game. Hitting doubles for the Braves were Gary Sechi, Bryant Romo and Bryan Lockie. For the Pirates, Tommy Kochinas went 2-for-3 with two RBI and Nick Voyatzis, Josh Blakeney and Wilkes had key hits.

The Giants were the winners of a 12-4 decision over the Mets. Adam Weleba and Tom Friesen combined on the mound for the win.

Marlin pitcher Daniel Dent helped his own cause with a two-run homer in a 15-2 win over the Mets. Steven Fair and Jeff Nakamoto each went 3-for-4 in the win, while Bill Bingley and Peter Possemato each had two hits. Casey Kovacic had the only hit for the mets, whose defensive leader was Matt Klekner.

In the last game for Arcadia Pony before a 10-day Spring break, the Pirates overwhelmed the Giants 11-4. Tommy Kochinas started the game off with a single and before it was over, he had come around to score three times. Christian Ortiz, John Wickhem, Jimmy Slater and Trevor Vallow all had doubles, while getting key hits were Josh Blakeney, Nick Voyatzis, Wesley Wilkes and Chris Potter. Two double plays, one from Voyatzis to Kochinas, and the other from Wickhem to Kochinas, helped keep the Giants from having any big innings. Johnny Guthrie had a double for the Giants.

In a battle of top contenders in the American League, the Angels swept the Royals 7-6 and 4-1 to climb into second place, Nick Lamb had a game-tying double and Darren Oddenino signaled in the winning run to highlight the offense. Brian Acosta and Elson Lai had key hits, while the defense was led by Chris Rockwell, Daimeon Montoya, Jason Richman and Eric Getten.

The league leading Red Sox played errorless ball as Tony Molina pitched a complete game, giving up just four hits and striking out seven, in a victory over the Royals. Offensive leaders were Aaron Sorrentino, Abel Gonzalez, Matt Seidler, Nick Torres, Michael Mora and Mike Harpel. Leading the Royal offense were Nick Allen Jimmy Bettini, John Boese and Jason Nelson.

MVP from last place

Chicago Cubs outfielder Andre Dawson, who hit .287 with a league-leading 49 homers and 137 RBI in the 1987 season, became the first player on a last-place team to be voted his league's Most Valuable Player.

Sierra Madre Little League

Tigers 11, White Sox 6

The Tigers picked up six runs in the second and third innings on five walks, four hits and two errors en route to an 11-6 victory over the While Sox. The White Sox were first to score on doubles by Aaron Steinberg and Ryan Ochoa, and they came back for three runs in the fourth inning on hits by Joshua Schmidt, Robert Farrell and Mike Fisher. Schmidt got his third double of the day to drive in Steven McGee to close out the White Sox scoring.

Yankees 16, Expos 10

Keith Bowman hit two home runs to lead the Yankees to their second consecutive win of the season, a 16-10 victory over the Expos of Pasadena. Bowman got an inside the park grand slam, Ryan Truax hit a bases loaded single and a run was walked in to give the Yankees a 6-0 first-inning lead. Bowman got his second homer, this time over the right field fence, to give the Yanks a 9-6 lead. However, the Expos tied the game at nine in the fifth before the Yanks broke the tie for good in the sixth, when Bowman singled, Robert Underwood doubled and Brian Burnham hit a bases-loaded single. Other offensive leaders in the win were Steve Karimitros, RBI single; Robert Bolger, double; Kevin McHugh, RBI; and Bowman, triple.

Yankees, 12, White Sox 11

The Yankees defeated the White Sox 12-11 in a come-from-behind victory. Steven McGee of the White Sox hit an inside-the-park homer to give the Sox an 11-5 lead before the Yankees went to work. Ryan Truax led off the fifth inning with a single, Steve Karimitros walked and Dave Poehler drove in both runners with a triple. Consecutive extra base hits by Kevin McHugh, Keith Bowman and Robert Underwood set the scene for Anthony Bailey's grounder to allow the Yanks to pull ahead for the win.

Braves 13, Orioles 8

Erik Bell had an inside the park home run to score three runs and Matt Willis hit a grand slam as the Braves beat the Orioles 13-8 in Sierra Madre Little League action last week. Cassy Smith and Ryan Baird went 2-for-3 in the win. Pitcher Dirk Hamady went the distance, striking out eight.

Bulldogs, 5, Dukes 5

The Bulldogs and Dukes played to a 5-5 tie in Farm Division competition. The Dukes scored two runs in the first on a single by Jason Swift and a home run by Logan Coats. The Bulldogs came back to take a 3-2 lead with singles by Jason Allen and P.J. Canterbury, a double by Landon Thomas and a two-RBI ground out by Phillip Cabot. In the top of the third, the Dukes scored two to regain the lead on a single by Vanessa Rodriguez and a home run by Jonathan Keating. The Dukes increased their lead with a solo home run by Coats, his second of the game. In the bottom of the fourth, the Bulldogs were down to their last out when Ash Buchan hit a bloop single, which was followed by a game tying home run by Max Lyon. Coats, pitching for the Dukes, struck out five in three innings, while Jason Allen of the Bulldogs struck out six in three innings.

Prep athletes to compete in Arcadia/Foot Locker Invitational track meet

The 27th annual Arcadia/Foot Locker Invitational Track and Field Meet will continue its tradition of bringing the best in prep track and field athletes to Southern California on Saturday, Apr. 9 at Arcadia High School. An open meet will begin with field and track events at 11 a.m. and will continue until 4 p.m., when the Invitational meet begins.

Arcadia High School's Ryan Sartwell will compete in the Invitational 800-meter run, and AHS athletes set to take part in the Open include Christina Zoccoli, triple jump; Aaron Lug, men's pole vault; and Randall Marshall, men's triple jump. Arcadia's women's 600-meter relay team, and the women's distance medley foursome will represent Arcadia.

Chris McAlister of Pasadena High School is set to compete in the long jump and 100-meter seeded, while Pasadena's 400-meter relay team is scheduled for the Invitational. Glickman will also run the 200-meter in the Open.

The Invitational's 100 meter event is expected to challenge Bryan Howard of Canyon Springs in Moreno Valley, the nation's fastest returning prep in the 100 meters, 10.43; Jermaine Stafford from Rochester, New York, the National Junior 200-meter champion, 20.70; and Pat Johnson from Redlands, who upset Howard in the Inland Empire Championships over 100 meters, racing a 1994-nation-leading 10.42.

Other athletes from all around the country will compete in this traditional spring challenge. Invitational tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for children 12 and under, and admission to the Open is $4 per person.

Dana captures city title

Jason Tang, who led the Dana Junior High School boys' basketball team in scoring, was voted most Valuable Player and captain of the team which won the Arcadia City Championship. Dana won the title during an 11-3 season in which the Mariners defeated First Avenue three times and Foothills twice.

Dana also won the Arcadia High School Holiday Tournament by defeating Maranatha and First Avenue. Tang was named MVP of the Tournament, and Demario Franklin was selected to the All-Tournament team.

Tang scored an average of 14 points per game and led in rebounds, averaging 9.5 rebounds a game during the season.

Franklin, a point guard, was the key in starting offensive plays, according to coach Art Farr, who added that Franklin's quickness broke the other team's press with ease. Jeremy Fallis, who led Dana's inside game, was one of the rebounding leaders and the blocked shot leader. Among the defensive leaders were Sean Lee, Bryce Rausch and Justin Locke, according to coach Farr.

Brice, Roberts picked Pacific League MVP

Valerie Brice, the Arcadia High School senior soccer standout who had 27 goals and 15 assists to lead the Lady Apaches to a co-Pacific League Championship this year, has been named Most Valuable Player of the Pacific League and has been selected to First Team All-CIF for Division II.

Brice's three-year total is 60 goals and 36 assists, which ranks her second to Missy Talbert for three-year statistics. During Brice's tenure, Arcadia's record was 70-8-4. This year, the Lady Apaches finished 17-6-2, losing in the second round of playoffs to Miracosta in four overtimes.

Sophomore Corrine Roberge, who tied Brice with 15 assists this year, was also named to the All-CIF pick, the first time an AHS freshman has made a CIF team. In her first season of varsity soccer, Howe scored five goals and had 10 assists, even though she missed the first five games while playing at the junior varsity level.

Named to the First Team All-Pacific League are senior Michelle Manning, juniors Ashley Bushey and Linda Richter, sophomore Roberge and Howe.

Second Team All-League honors were earned by juniors Kristen Brunzell and Vanessa Chao and sophomore Joy Avedesian. Berty Change, a junior, received Honorable Mention.

Chris Roberts, who was the leading scorer on the boys' soccer team, was named MVP of the Pacific League while Mark Bray and Matt Streng were picked for First Team All-League. Second team honors went to Vinko Zlomis and Robert Doran; and Chase Linden received Honorable Mention.

In basketball, Diane Micheils received Second Team honors, while Crisda Coffee received Honorable Mention for the girls, and Gerard Gamboa was named Second Team and Raffy Jajjar got Honorable Mention for the boys.

Zimmerman gets no-hit shutout

Kathy Zimmerman threw a no-hit shutout as Alverno High School girls' softball team blanked Sacred Heart of Los Angeles 6-0 in the Horizon League opener last week. She had 10 strikeouts in the win, while her sister, Patty Zimmerman, went 2-for-4 with three RBI to help the cause.

Other offensive leaders were Cristina Martinez, 2-for-3 with two RBI; and Ann Nguyen, 2-for-3, one RBI. Maria-Elena Navarro was the lead-off batter, and she scored three runs on walks. The Jaguars scattered 10 hits in the win.

Defensive leaders, who helped preserve the no-hitter, were Carole Whitehead and Aileen Rolon.

The Jaguars, with a 4-4 overall record, are idle until Apr. 12, when they face Holy Family in a league game.

Lady Apaches blank San Gabriel

San Gabriel's first batter got a hit, and after that, the game belonged to Arcadia High School's softball team as the Lady Apaches blanked the home team 12-0 in a non-league contest last week.

Michelle Zwick homered with one runner on base in the three-run sixth inning that helped seal the victory for Arcadia, which scattered 11 hits, 10 of them singles.

Cara Wallace was 2-for-4, while Linda Richter and Amy Shepherd were 2-for-3. Shepherd had two RBI in the game. Jackie Zwick was the starting pitcher, and she threw seven strikeouts in four innings, and Christy Riker got seven more in three innings of relief.

The Lady Apaches are idle during Spring Break with the next game scheduled for Monday, Apr. 11 at 3:15 p.m., when they face Arroyo in non-league action at Arroyo. Arcadia's Pacific League opener is an away game at Hoover on Tuesday, Apr. 12, at 3:15 p.m.

Santa Anita Derby tops weekend stakes schedule

The Santa Anita Derby will have its 57th running at Santa Anita Park on Saturday, Apr. 9, when there will be an early post, noon, one-half hour earlier than usual.

The Santa Anita Derby carries a purse of $500,000 guaranteed, with $275,000 going to the winner. The race, which will be televised nationally, with a west coast delay, by ABC's "Wild World of Sports," was won last year by Personal Hope. This year's contestants include Breeders' Cup Juvenile champion Brocco and his most recent conquerors, Valient Nature and Soul of the Matter as well as San Rafael Stakes winner Tabasco Cat.

Two other added-money races will be decided on Saturday, the $100,000-added Santa Paula Stakes for 3-year-old fillies and the $100,000-added Las Cienegas Breeders' Cup Handicap for fillies and mares, 4-years-old and up. The $200,000-added Santa Barbara handicap will highlight the program on Sunday, Apr. 10.

Last Saturday, Del Mar Dennis, with Sal Gonzalez aboard, won the $200,000 San Bernardino Handicap, beating out Stuka, winner of the Santa Anita Handicap after The Wicked North was disqualified. Stuka finished seventh in the eight-horse field.

On Sunday, Alex the Great, ridden by Chris Antley, won the $75,000 Handicap.

McInerny named Oak Tree trustee

James McInerny, a partner in a South Pasadena insurance brokerage firm, has been named a trustee of the Oak Tree Foundation, according to an announcement made last week by Foundation president Michael Morphy.

The Oak Tree Foundation distributes to charitable and civic institutions funds raised by three racing days during each Oak Tree Racing Association season at Santa Anita Park.

McInerny is a resident of Pasadena.

PAM PROFFITT — Arcadia High School graduate Pam Proffitt is a member of the Williams College cross country team which was recently given a NCAA Cross Country Coaches Association Team Academic Award for the second year in a row. The Williams varsity squad qualified for the designation by having a combined grade point average above 3.0 during the fall semester, during which time they won the team championship at the Division III New England NCAA regional qualifying meet and went on to place fifth at the national Division II meet. Proffitt, a biology major, posted a 3.47 GPA, earning her a place on the Dean's List at Williams.

Arcadia beats Hoover

Down 0-7 in the fifth and deciding game, the Arcadia High School boys' volleyball team rallied, scoring 20 unanswered points enroute to a 5-11 victory over Hoover in the Pacific League opener last week. The see-saw, nail biting match began 15-11, 13-15, 15-17, 16-14. The final point of the fifth game came on Chris Cammayo's jump serve for an ace and the win.

Matt Streng had 33 kills and 10 blocks, while Eddie Him had 16 kills. Other defensive leaders were Tanley Hong, 12 kills; Robert Ip, 12 blocks; and Jon Sawada, 11 blocks.

The Apaches are idle during Spring Break and will resume action on Wednesday, Apr. 13, with an away game against Brentwood at 4 p.m., and a home game against Glendale set for Friday, Apr. 15, 7:30 p.m.
